Hull Tells Probers He Had Expected War with Japs

ALL MEAT RATIONING ENDS TOMORROW

NO ULTIMATUM GIVEN BY HIM OR ROOSEVELT

Ailing Ex-Secretary Says U.S. Tried Desperately To Gain Time from Japan.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Cordell Hull told congressional investigators today that he had expected war with Japan prior to the Pearl Harbor attack and that he and President Roosevelt had maneuvered desperately to gain time.

The ailing 74-year-old former secretary of state gave his account of diplomatic negotiations on the eve of hostilities in a prepared statement to a senate-house committee investigating the disaster.

He said he and Mr. Roosevelt sought to avoid a "showdown" with the Japanese and never gave Japan any ultimatum.

Read by Counsel

Because of Hull's health, the committee permitted a committee counsel, Gerhard Gesell, to read the former secretary's memorandum. Hull was excused from the morning session after putting in an early appearance.

Before the inquiry resumed after a Thanksgiving day recess, Senator Lucas (D-Ill) said former Postmaster General Frank Walker probably would be called to tell of his part in the diplomatic talks with Japan before the Nipponese Struck at Pear Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

Hull arrived 10 minutes early for the meeting and had to wait an additional 10 minutes for counsel to enter documents in the record including a proposed draft of a message to congress, given to the late President Roosevelt by the state department. It said policy toward Japan would not be influenced "by fear of what attacks Japan * * * may make upon us. Mr. Roosevelt, however, never delivered the message.

While Hull was waiting, Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) wedged through a circle of photographers to shake his hand. They chatted awhile and a smile greased Hull's lined cheeks.

Hull told the committee his statement had been prepared under his direction by state department experts, and represented his considered views.

"I consider it accurate and would not under any circumstances have anyone doubt that I stand for the statement," he said.

Lists Five Points

In it, he made these points:

1. He gave the cabinet repeated warnings before Dec. 7, 1941, that Japan could be expected to attack "anywhere, anytime," since there appeared to be no hope of successful diplomatic negotiatons.

2. Hull said that only by the United States yielding fundamental principles" could the Pearl Harbor attack have been prevented, with the prospect it would have come after Japan "consolidated the gains she would have made without fighting."

3. He asserted the cornerstone of his and President Roosevelt's efforts were to avoid a showdown" with Japan while this country strengthened its defenses, adding that he discussed completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan."

4. He revealed that most of the information this government received indicated the Japanese would concentrate attacks on the Kra peninsula and the Dutch East Indies.

5. He disclosed that at the Cairo conference President Roosevelt had agreed with Prime Minister Churchill to take "additional action" in informing Japan that in the event of further aggression they would be prepared to move defensively.

Airplane and Auto Crashes Claim Three Lives in Holiday Accidents in Crawford County

Three are dead and five others are injured as a result of airplane and automobile accidents in Marion and surrounding territory over the Thanksgiving holiday.

The three fatalities occurred in Crawford county when Lloyd Hagan and S. Arabios, both of Detroit, were killed in a plane crash, and Ruth Morton, 8, of Indianapolis, died in an automobile crash.

John L. Layton, 36, of Upper Sandusky, was injured when his automobile struck a Pennsylvania freight train on the Bellefontaine avenue crossing early Thursday morning.

In Ohio at least 13 people met violent deaths, two in hunting accidents, over the holiday.

Tragic Holiday Trip

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., Nov. 23—The Thanksgiving trip of an Indianapolis, Ind., family was marred near here Wednesday night when their automobile crashed into a truck east of Bucyrus, killing Ruth Morton, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Morton.

Both parents of the dead child are in Bucyrus City hospital. The mother, Mrs. Mary Morton, 34, is critically injured, suffering from a fractured skull, fractured right arm and right knee and from shock. Mr. Morton, 40, suffered a fractured pelvis and scalp wounds.

The accident occurred five miles east of Bucyrus on route 30-N when the car driven by Mr. Morton crashed into the rear of a large livestock truck driven by J. E. McNichol of Jamestown, Pa., in a heavy rain storm.

The Morton family was enroute to Mansfield to spend Thanksgiving with friends.

Two others were injured in the crash but were released from the hospital yesterday. They are James Morton, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton, and Robert Kuneman, 26, brother of Mrs. Morton. Both suffered lacerations.

Both the Morton car and the truck were traveling east. The force of the impact caused the truck to overturn, but the driver escaped injury. The Morton car left the road, overturning in a field.

Plane Crash Kills Two

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., Nov. 23—Federal aviation inspectors today were investigating the crash of a twin-motored airplane which struck two trees near Chatfield, 10 miles north of here, Wednesday night, killing two Detroit, Mich., residents.

The victims were Lloyd Hagan, 47, pilot, and S. Arabios, age unavailable.

The accident occurred two miles west of Chatfield and the plane crashed and burned in a field about a mile from state route 103.

Bodies of the two men were not found until Thursday.

Thought Buildings Afire

Sheriff Ralph Schreck of Crawford county reported the farm residents living in the vicinity saw the flames of the burning plane about a quarter of a mile away. Because of the storm they made no investigation, thinking that some small buildings had caught fire.

Thursday morning, however, they investigated the incident when they saw that the buildings were still standing.

Mr. Arabios' body was found about 9 a. m. 25 feet from the wreckage.

It was thought for some time that only one person had been in the plane. The discovery that two persons were in the craft was not made until county officials checked with a Columbus airport where the plane had taken off earlier Wednesday night.

Search Renewed

Search for the second passenger was renewed and Mr. Hagan's body was found about 2 p. m. a quarter of a mile from the wreckage. Authorities theorized that he had attempted to reach a farm house in the distance where he saw lights.

His body was found in a sitting

Roosevelt Notes On Jap Deal Disclosed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—A copy of a pencilled note in the handwriting of the late President Roosevelt outlining a possible temporary agreement with Japan late in 1941 was placed in the record of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee today.

A notation said it was given by the President to the Secretary of State—"not dated but probably written shortly after Nov. 20, 1941." Apparently it was prepared for some sort of proposition never submitted to Japan.

It read:

"6 Months

"1. U. S. to resume economic relations—some oil and rice now—more later.

"2. Japan to send no more troops to Indo-China or Manchurian border or any place south (Dutch, Brit, or Siam).

3. Japan to agree not to invoke the Tri-Partite pact even if U. S. gets into European war.

"4. U. S. to introduce Japs to Chinese to talk things over but U. S. to take no part in their conversations.

"Latter on Pacific agreements."

(End President's note)

Mr. Roosevelt added a handwritten addition to the draft of a telegram to British Prime Minister Churchill Nov. 24, describing a proposed "modus vivendi" or temporary agreement between this country and Japan. The "modus vivendi" never was submitted.

The late President wrote:

"This seems to me a fair proposition for the Japanese but its acceptance or rejection is really a matter of internal Japanese politics. I am not very hopeful and we must all be prepared for real trouble, possibly soon."

DENIES LORAIN SLAYING

By The Associated Press

NATION FACING PHONE STRIKE; GM HOPE SEEN

Illinois Telephone Dispute May Spread Throughout Country Union Hints.

By The Associated Press

The possibility of a nationwide strike of telephone workers was hinted today by Joseph A. Beirne, president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, who arrived in Chicago to meet with union officials in an attempt to settle a strike of Illinois operators.

"The possibility of a national strike is not remote if the situation here is as bad as I think it is," Beirne told newspapermen.

(Last Oct. 5 between 130,000 and 200,000 operators throughout the country quit work for four hours after the independent NFTW union called the stoppage in a "show of union strength.")

Negotiations Collapse

The Illinois telephone traffic union called upon the NFTW, its parent union, to represent it in future discussions after negotiations for the settlement of a strike of 8,700 operators of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. broke down last night. The walkout, now in its fifth day, has curtailed telephone service throughout Illinois and hampered long distance communications in Chicago.

Ernest Weaver, regional director of the federation, said the threat of a national strike now was presented by the action of the Illinois union.

The union stood on its $6 weekly wage increase but offered to amend its demand on retroactive payments by advancing the back pay period from May 9, 1945, to June 29. The company has agreed to the War Labor board's national telephone commission award of $4 weekly increase, retroactive to May 9.

Over 500,000 Idle

The number of workers idle throughout the country because of labor disputes was more than 500,000, including some 200,000 at most of the 70-odd General Motors plants in 20 states.

In Detroit, CIO United Auto Workers union officials awaited a management reply to its proposal for arbitration of the 30 per cent wage increase dispute by a three-man board.

John W. Gibson, special assistant to Secretary of Labor Schweilenbach, expressed hope an early settlement would be reached in the wage dispute. He returned to Washington after conferring with union officials and predicted the walkout would not last beyond Jan. 15.

Gibson, who said General Motors officials were not available for conferences on the holiday, added "it probably will be settled before that."

Seeks $1 Boost

In Atlantic City, N. J., the executive board of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America said it would seek a $1 a day wage increase, an old age retirement fund and six paid holidays each year for its 150,000 clothing workers throughout the country.

A union official said negotiations also were under way for wage hikes for 75,000 cotton garment workers in 32 states.

The 20-day walkout of 550 CIO workers of the Proctor Electric Co. in Philadelphia ended after they accepted a 10 cents an hour wage increase.

ERNIE PYLE'S WIDOW DIES IN NEW MEXICO

By The Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 23—Mrs. Ernie Pyle, widow of the famed war correspondent, often referred to as "that girl" in his column, died at 7:30 a. m. today.

Mrs. Pyle, 44, had been in ill health since Ernie was killed by a Jap sniper on Ie Shima last April 18. Her physician said she died of complications arising from an attack of influenza.

Mrs. Pyle had not been away from Albuquerque since July 3 when she flew to Washington to receive the Army and Navy medal of merit awarded posthumously to her husband.

She was married to Pyle in Washington, D. C., July 7, 1925. Ernie was then city editor of the Washington News.

They had no children.

CONFERENCE STALEMATED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Industry delegates to the labor-management conference virtually have abandoned hope of arriving at any solution of jurisdictional disputes. A delegate of the National Association of Manufacturers predicted today the question would be referred for long-term study to the proposed semi-permanent executive board whose creation is favored by conference leaders.

Surprise Proof of German Plot for War Bared

U. S. Prosecutors Say Main Case Rests on New Documents on Nazi Plans.

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Nov. 23—Punishment of 20 of Hitler's top aides was demanded today by the United States on charges of spreading the "atrocious doctrine" of aggressive warfare in a plot to murder millions throughout the world.

American prosecutors told the international war crimes tribunal the main case against the Nazi leaders would rest on "10 documents never before revealed."

Attempts to introduce the surprise documents brought a storm of protest from German defense counsel. The session was adjourned for the day to permit study by lawyers for the accused Nazis.

Emphasizing the hopes of Allied nations that the charter of the international military tribunal outlawing aggressive war would open a new era of peace, Assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman said punishment of the Nazis for planning world conflict was "the heart of the case."

One of the documents submitted by Alderman disclosed Hitler told his military commanders May 23, 1939—more than three months before the outbreak of World War II—that lightning attacks would be made to seize Holland and Belgium as bases for smashing Britain and France.

"Declarations of neutrality must be ignored," the fuehrer asserted.

"If Holland and Belgium are successfully occupied and held and if France is also defeated, the fundamental conditions for successful war against England will have been secured."

Among Secret Papers

The minutes of the meeting were among the 10 hither-to secret documents submitted to the international military tribunal.

To Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, Hitler was quoted as saying on April 4, 1941—eight months before the attack on Pearl Harbor—that "Germany on her part would immediately take the consequences if Japan would get involved with the United States."

A high comamnd plan for the invasion of Russia dated Dec. 18, 1940, and initialed by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl, declared Germany must be prepared to crush Russia in a quick campaign before the end of the war against England.

Says Stalin Doomed

In another document, Hitler was quoted as telling his commanders Aug. 22, 1939, that Russia had no interest in maintaining the independence of Poland and "Stalin knows it is the end of his regime, no matter whether his soldiers come out of a war victorious or beaten."

"Poland is in the position where I wanted her ," he added. "A factor favorable to us is France. We can ask only benevolent neutrality from Spain. * * * Complete destruction of Poland is the military aim."

Reviewing the legal points of the indictment under the charter, Prosecutor Alderman said all other phases of the case against the Nazis have "little judicial international significance" compared with the conspiracy to wage total aggressive warfare.

Industrialists Linked

Heads of the vast Krupp steel empire and the I. G. Farben chemical trust, Assistant Prosecutor Thomas Dodd charged, agreed to finance the Nazi party as an antidote to Communism and later cooperated in a secret rearmament program.

Defendant Hjalmar Schacht was red-faced as he heard himself described from German documents as the financial wizard secretly appointed as "plenipotentiary for war economy" in 1935 and won the praise of a Reich general as "the man who made reconstruction of the German army economically possible."

Krupp Aided Too

The head of the great Krupp works, Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach — who was indicted but thus far has escaped trial because of illness—was shown by German records, Dodd asserted, to have aided in raising campaign funds for Hitler in 1933 and to have declared after Hitler's ascension to power that German industry "puts itself at your disposal."

Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel denied earlier that he participated in the Hitler cabinet meetings that planned the Nazi flood of aggression.

Dr. Otto Nelte, Keitel's after-

FOOD FATS GO OFF LIST TOO, SUGAR REMAINS

Government Sees Good Supply for Civilians; Action Follows White House Talks.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—All meat rationing ends tomorrow. At the same time, all food fats become point-free.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson made these announcements to a news conference today. The food fats freed from the ration program include butter, margarine, lard and shortening. The meat rationing termination also applied to canned fish.

Sugar is now the only food left on the ration list.

The meats and fats rationing program was started March 30, 1943.

The termination is effective at 12:01 a. m. Saturday.

Secretary Anderson said there was no immediate prospect of lifting sugar rationing.

Anderson estimated that lifting of rationing would make meat available for civilians in December at an annual rate of 163 pounds per capita compared with an annual rate of 110 pounds during the early spring and summer.

Anderson said the decision was agreed to by Price Administrator Chester Bowles.

The whole question of continuing rationing was discussed at a White House conference Wednesday night attended by both Anderson and Bowles.

The secretary said the ending of rationing would in no way affect government plans for the shipment of meats and certain fats and oils to Allied and liberated countries.

Anderson said the supplies of fats and oils would continue to be limited for several months.

Save Book No. 4

OPA cautioned the public to be sure to save ration book Number Four for buying sugar.

A spokesman for the agency said, however, that with the termination of meats and fats rationing tomorrow, all other stamps in book four will be valueless. So, he added, are the red tokens given as change for meats-fats coupons.

Number 28 sugar stamp will be good for five pounds through December 31.

May Control Some

Secretary Anderson said the government might have to use controls on bakers and other large industrial users to prevent them from absorbing the limited supplies of fats and oils.

The rate of civilian supplies of meat in the first quarter of 1946 will depend, he said, upon the size of exports. Foreign shipments will be influenced by the amount of funds available for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration.

Legislation appropriating additional funds for UNRRA are before congress. Anderson said that should UNRRA get the money, total exports in the first quarter might run as high as 635,000,000 pounds compared with an estimate of about 550,000,000 pounds in the current quarter.

He said that should exports reach the maximum amount, the civilian supply in the first quarter should be at the rate of around 150 pounds.

Eisenhower Goes Into Hospital with Cold

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, newly designated chief of staff, has entered Ashford General hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

The Army said Eisenhower had entered the hospital on the advice of his physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, to prevent development of complications from a severe cold.

When Eisenhower testified yesterday before a house foreign relations committee, he disclosed the cold might prevent his returning to Germany by air today.

Mrs. Eisenhower is ill with pneumonia at Bryan, Tex., but is reported improving satisfactorily.

SANTA HONORED IN YULE PARADE

MARION county collaborated today with an air-minded Santa Claus to usher in the first peacetime Christmas season in five years. Despite snow and a 28-degree temperature an estimated 3,000 persons lined the curb along the line of march of the parade in Santa's honor.

Santa arrived over Marion shortly before noon in a silver plane piloted by A. A. Freeman of the municipal airport. After circling the downtown area several times, the plane landed at Mar-O-Del golf course and was towed into the line of the parade.

Santa, looking none the worse for his chilly trip, stood in the open cockpit of the plane bowing and waving to the enthusiastic children running beside him.

With Santa were boys of the Vernon Junior High schoolninth grade Hi-Y club wearing grotesque papier-mache heads and costumes of story book characters. Among the characters impersonated were Mother Goose, Red Riding Hood, Grandma, the Wolf, Goosey Gander, Jack and Jill, Goldilocks, Mama Bear, Papa Bear, and Baby Bear.

Led by Harding High school band, the parade included bands of Claridon and Caledonia high schools, three large brightly decorated floats, a fire truck and a horse drawn sleigh.

The parade assembled on Delaware avenue at the intersection of Walnut and Washington streets and moved north on Delaware and Main street to Center then west on Center to Central Junior High school where it dismanded. However,

Santa remained to talk with the several hundred children assembled there.

The parade was sponsored and arranged by the Chamber of Commerce.

OVER 30 YANKS HURT IN INDIA

One Missing as Riots Rage Over Trial of Japanese Collaborators.

By The Associated Press

CALCUTTA, Nov. 23 — One American soldier was missing and more than 30 had been injured today as Indian anti-British rioting raged for the third day in Calcutta and spread to Bombay and Delhi.

The demonstrations, touched off by the trial of Indian officers who sided with the Japanese in the war, threw Calcutta into civil turmoil. More than 20,000 municipal workers went on strike.

The name of the missing man was not disclosed.

At least 15 American trucks and command cars have been attacked by unruly mobs.

Crying "down with British imperialism" students clashed repeatedly with police in Bombay. Twenty demonstrators were reported injured. A British soldier who refused student demands that he shout "Jai Hind (Victory to India,' was beaten.

The Red Mogul fort where Indian National army men are on trial on charges of aiding the enemy was the scene of Delhi's demonstration.

In Third Day

Disorders swept Calcutta for the third day.

The total injured in Calcutta street fighting rose to 228 as a result of today's disorders, but the dead still numbered 15. Among the injured were 12 U. S. soldiers.

Charred and burning trucks littered Calcutta's streets and gunfire echoed through the outlying sections as uncontrolled mob action spread from the downtown section to the southern, southeastern and northwestern areas of the city.

After several United States soldiers had been injured in attacks by rioters on military vehicles in Calcutta, military police armed with submachineguns were assigned to convoy U. S. vehicles through the streets. American flags were placed on U. S. vehicles.

Loot U. S. Truck

Demonstrators stopped one American truck in South Calcutta, forced the driver to alight, looted the vehicle of food supplies and set it afire. The city was placed out of bounds for all American troops except those on essential duties.

The city's water supply was reported seriously depleted as a result of the strike of 20,000 municipal worker and drinking water was rationed. Demonstrators were reported lying on the railroad tracks between Howrah and Liloonh, preventing movement of trains.

ney, said that although a secret cabinet council with which the high command chief was linked had been created by law Feb. 4, 1938, the council never was appointed and held no sessions.

Describing the use of force and propaganda to hold the youth of Germany, Major Frank B. Wallis, Boston, one of the U. S. prosecutors, charged "the Nazi conspirators were utterly unscrupulous" in controlling schools and youth organizations.

"The first steps in making the schools the tools of the Nazis were two decrees in May, 1934, whereby the Reich ministry of education was replaced by the absolute authority of the Reich in all educational matters," Wallis said.

Baldur von Schirach, one of the defendants, was appointed state youth leader in the same month, Wallis added, and "destroyed or took over all youth organizations * * * by force in the first instance."

May Call Yanks

With the prosecution's attack on Germany's industrial and financial leaders, Dr. Rudolf Dix, Schacht's counsel, declared at a recess he was considering summoning American businessmen as defense witnesses.

Dodd linked German industrial leaders and Schacht, former Reichsbank president, directly to the Nazi party even before the election which resulted in Hitler becoming Reichschancellor in 1933 with an affidavit from Georg von Schnitzler of the I. G. Farben firm.

Schnitzler said Schacht "acted as kind of a host" at a meeting in February, 1933, of Hitler, Krupp, Albert Vogler, chief of the steel combine, and other industrialists.

Hitler warned the industrialists of the dangers of Communism, Schnitzler's affidavit declared, and after the Nazi leader left the room "Schacht proposed to the meeting the raising of an election fund * * * of 3,000,000 reichsmarks."

Relied on Army

One letter signed by the Reichsbank president and sent to Hitler Jan. 7, 1939, said: "From the beginning the Reichsbank has been aware of the fact that successful foreign policy can be attained only by the reconstruction of the German armed forces. The Reichsbank therefore assumed to a very great extent the responsibility to finance rearmament in spite of the inherent dangers to the currency."

Another affidavit read by the prosecution was signed by Emil Puhl, a director of the Reichsbank, who said Schacht has created a fake organization called "Metallurgische Forschungs Gesellschaft," presumably a research fund into which armaments funds flowed and then out again to munitions makers, cloaking the German rearmament program.

A basic directive of the Reich economic ministry issued Sept. 30, 1934, was introduced by the prosecution to show Hitler started preparing for war, it read:

"(The ministry) has been charged with the economic preparation for war. The theoretical part includes legal and organizational preparation, such as laws and directives. The practical preparation includes the building up of stockpiles, new construction of facilities to produce scarce goods, redeployment of industry to secure areas and influence over fiscal and trade politicies.

Ohio Counts Ten Dead in Accidents

By The Associated Press

Tragedy mingled with Thanksgiving and today Ohio counted at least 10 persons dead as a result of holiday accidents.

Traffic mishaps claimed eight lives, and two persons were killed on hunting excursions.

Three Hancock county residents were injured fatally in a collision of their auto and a truck near Detroit, Mich. They were: Harry J. Willdis, 32, of Vanlue, Carl Hatsch, 32, and Ralph H. Barclay, 30, both of Findlay. Another Findlay resident, Richard Lonyo, 32, was injured critically in the crash.

The hunting victims were Paul Buchmann, 38, of Columbus, and Charles Carpenter, 15, of Wadsworth. Buchmann was killed near Springfield. Coroner Austin Richards reported, by a blast from a shotgun fired by a 12-year-old boy in another hunting party. Carpenter's companions said his gun accidentally discharged as he set it in a truck after leaving the field.

Other traffic victims were:

Napoleon—Mrs. Edward Druhot, 28, of Napoleon, in an auto-train crash at nearby Deshler;

Middletown—Francis E. Kissell, 28, of Pitsburg (Darke county) as his car overturned on a curve in Butler county;

Akron—Gilbert Jauchem, 32, struck by a car near the downtown district;

Columbus—William Heneka, 64-year-old patient at a state mental institution, struck by a car enroute to church;

Cleveland—Richard W. Price, 23, of Parma Heights, in an auto-truck collision at Parma Heights.

Upper Sandusky Man Hurt in Crash Here

John L. Layton, 36, of Upper Sandusky suffered head, chest and knee injuries yesterday at 3:39 a. m. when his car crashed into a Pennsylvania freight train which had stopped across the Bellefontaine avenue crossing, according to police reports. Police were told Layton, driving west on Bellefontaine avenue, failed to stop and crashed into the northbound freight which was at a standstill. The train was manned by a Columbus crew.

Layton was taken to the home of a friend, Mrs. Helen O'Meara of 945 Uncapher avenue, where he received medical attention. The car was removed to a garage.

U. S. Tanks Hurled At Indonesians' Forces

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, JAVA, Nov. 23 — Employing Sherman tanks for the first time in their Soerabaja offensive, British Indian troops pushed 2,000 yards southward in that naval base today and by nightfall held two-thirds of the city.

The British were fighting for the principal hostelries.

Hull Tells Story To Probers

as health, Hull could not testify more than 45 minutes at a time.

Hull said the original Japanese move into southern Indo-China was "the overt act" that so changed the far eastern situation that it became a question no longer of this country's avoiding the risk of war but of making "a definite and clear move in self defense."

That act, he said, brought about the July 26, 1941 order of President Roosevelt to freeze Japanese assets in this country.

Hull noted that at the Atlantic conference of the President and Prime Minister Churchill in August, 1941, "Mr. Churchill had informed President Roosevelt that the British government needed more time to prepare for resistance against a possible Japanese attack on the Far East."

"This was true also of our defense preparations," Hull said.

"President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill had agreed that the American and British governments should take parallel action in informing Japan that, in the event the Japanese government should take further steps of aggression against neighboring countries, each of them would be compelled to take all necessary measures to safeguard the legitimate rights and interests of its country and nationals and to insure its country's safety and security."

Warned in August

Mr. Roosevelt gave the Japanese ambassador this warning on Aug. 17, but agreed to continue negotiations. He and the President knew the Japanese were "unreliable and treacherous."

They continued to talk with the Japanese in the hope that, at least, "the conversations would give our Army and Navy time to prepare."

Hull said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek reported early in November that the Japanese appeared to be preparing to attack Kunming. He asked for American air units and for a warning against Japan.

The Army and Navy recommended against any armed intervention in China beyond the "Flying Tigers" volunteers. They urged additional material aid to China but wanted "no ultimatum delivered to Japan."

"I concurred completely in the view that no ultimatum should be delivered to Japan," Hull said. "I had been striving for months to avoid a showdown with Japan nue for averting or delaying war between the United States and Japan."

The former secretary said that as early as Nov. 7, 1941, he told the Cabinet "relations were extremely critical and we should be on the lookout for a military attack anywhere by Japan at any time."

Grew Alarmed

He added that Ambassador Joseph Grew cabled warnings Nov. 3 and 17 "of the possibility of sudden Japanese attacks which might make inevitable war with the United States."

He said Saburo Kurusu, Japanese "peace" ambassador, on Nov. 20 presented a new proposal "which on its face was extreme."

Hull said he told Kurusu this formula offered nothing helpful. The same day, the witness continued, word was received from the Dutch that a Japanese force had arrived near Palao, nearest point in the mandated islands to the heart of the Indies.

"The whole issue presented," he said, "was whether Japan would yield in her avowed movement of conquest or whether we would yield the fundamental principles for which we stood in the Pacific and all over the world. They were armed to the teeth and we knew they would attack whenever and wherever they pleased."

Regarding the situation as "critical and virtually hopeless" he said he nevertheless went ahead with efforts to draft a temporary agreement.

On Nov. 25, he said he told the war council, consisting of the President, secretaries of state, war and navy, the Army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations, "the Japanese military were already poised for attack."

Japs Not Told

The temporary agreement never was presented to the Japanese. Instead, Hull restated on Nov. 26 the principles of peaceful cooperation and nonaggression on which he said the United States stood. This, he went on, was what Japanese propagandists later called his "ultimatum."

At a November 28 meeting of the war council, Hull said he pointed out there was "practically no possibility of an agreement being achieved with Japan."

Hull recounted various reports received of Japanese military activities, including a reported plan for them to attack the Kra peninsula on December 1 and the landing of additional troops in southern Indo-China.

"On November 30," he said, "I was informed by the British ambassador that the British government had important indications that Japan was about to attack Siam and that this attack would include a seaborne expedition to seize strategic points in the Kra isthmus."

On December 6, Hull said the government received reports that a Japanese fleet of 35 transports, eight cruisers and 20 destroyers was moving toward the Kra peninsula.

Confirmed Suspicions

"This was confirmation that the long threatened Japanese movement of expansion by force to the south was under way," he said.

He noted the President's telegraphic appeal that day to the emperor of Japan to avert the "tragic possibilities."

"On December 7, the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor," he concluded.

Hull attributed Japan's record of duplicity largely "to the fact that the Japanese military were a law unto themselves and consistently overrode commitments which civilian Japanese had given."

Under a subheading "Situation in the United States," the former Secretary recalled that as far back as 1933 the senate foreign relations committee turned down a proposal which would have authorized U. S. cooperation in an arms embargo against aggressor nations.

Got Wrong Idea

This and similar actions, he said, were interpreted by aggressors as meaning the U. S. would "not oppose effectively their policies of conquest."

For further illustration, he mentioned efforts he and Mr. Roosevelt made to revise neutrality legislation in the summer of 1939 so as to have "strengthened the hands of the western democracies."

This Hull recalled, "was violently opposed and blocked on the wholly mistaken theory that no war was likely to occur and, if it did occur, no attack against us was likely."

U. S. Guessed Wrong on Jap Attack

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Army and Navy staff chiefs agreed on Nov. 27, 1941 that Japan might strike in six different directions, but did not include Pearl Harbar in this estimate, a senate-house committee learned today.

In a joint memorandum to the President on that date—less than two weeks before war started—Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, said that if current diplomatic negotiations with Japan ended unsuccessfully:

"Japan may attack: the Burma road, Thailand, Malaya, the Netherlands East Indies, the Philippines, the Russian maritime provinces."

The memorandum was entered in the records of the joint committee investigating the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

KEEP OVERCOATS ON, WEATHERMAN WARNS

By The Associated Press

Ohioans shivered today in the first cold snap of the season and the weatherman said they could expect to keep bundled up well into the week-end.

The forecast for the state was "cloudy and continued cold with occasional snow squalls Friday and Saturday."

Weather officials reported a central Mississippi valley storm, which dumped 12 inches of snow in some spots in the middle west, was moving northeastward, bringing more snow and cold, raw winds toward Ohio.

Chilly winds, which whipped snow flurries across the state, sent Thanksgiving day temperatures tumbling well below freezing last night. The mercury dropped to 18 degrees at Dayton at midnight. Toledo and Findlay reported lows of 19. Cincinnati and Cleveland thermometers sank to 20.

Columbus reported a mean temperature of 26 for the day—13 degrees below normal. High there was 29, low 24.

Snow which accompanied the temperature drop left a thin, white layer over most of the state and made driving and walking hazardous.

was made commander of the U. S. 7th Army in Europe.

Rites Sunday

He will be buried in private services at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y.

At his bedside, where an oxygen tent had been used to combat what hospital authorities called a special type of pneumonia, were his wife, Julia Lillell Patch; his daughter, Mrs. Charles M. Drummond; his widowed daughter-in-law, Mrs. Alexander M. Patch, III, and his brother, Maj. Gen. Joseph Patch. The general's son, a captain, member of the U. S. 1st Army in France, was killed Oct. 22, 1944, while assaulting enemy positions.

The colorful career of Sandy Patch found a climax in the European war. Placed in command of the 7th Army May 1, 1944, he trained the Army for amphibious operations and led it when it hit the beaches of southern France Aug. 15, 1944.

Drove Nazis Back

In three months the 7th drove the Germans back almost 600 miles. The smashing drive made Gen. Patch the first Army commander to pierce successfully the natural frontier formed by the Vosges Mountains.

Patch handled the final mopping up of the Japanese on Guadalcanal, moving in with Army troops late in 1942 to relieve the Marines. Previously he had commanded U. S. troops in New Caledonia. For his work at Guadalcanal, he was awarded the Navy's Distinguished Service Medal.

He returned to the United States in March, 1943, to head the Fourth Army Corps with headquarters at Fort Lewis, Wash.

DE GAULLE CALLS FOR NATIONAL REFORMS

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Nov. 23—President de Gaulle presented to the constituent assembly today a program calling for quick nationalization of France's credit, electricity, and insurance industries.

He called for reforms in public service and administration, judicial reforms and a constitutional change in the military structure of the national defense. The general asked for "modernization" of mining, industry and agriculture and said the franc must be revalued so French money can be "established on an indisputable base."

De Gaulle declared the threat of atomic destruction was hanging over the world and that French foreign policy would be directed toward a role of harmony among the nations of western Europe.

THREE ARE INDICTED BY GRAND JURY HERE

Accused Will Be Arraigned in Court Monday.

Indictments were returned in three of the six cases considered by the September term of the grand jury which met Wednesday. The men indicted are: Arthur L. Litell on a charge of forgery, Albert Harris on a charge of breaking and entering, and Raymond Eaches on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. They will be arraigned in common pleas court Monday at 10 a. m. The grand jury made its report to Judge Paul D. Smith Wednesday afternoon to complete a one-day session.

During its session the grand jury visited the Marion county jail and inspected conditions of diet and accommodations and discipline and treatment of prisoners. They found conditions adequate and prisoners properly cared for.

The jury recommended that when labor and materials permit the overcrowded conditions of the women's quarters be corrected. They had no changes to recommend in the management of the jail.

Both Sides Report Victories in China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 23 — Nationalist capture of the strategic Manchurian port of Hulutao is imminent, press dispatches said today, while Chinese Communists claimed belatedly the seizure of Yenchung and Tinghsien far to the south.

The Reds asserted officially that they took Yencheng, important town 120 miles northeast of Nanking, on Nov. 10, and that Tinghsien, on the Peiping-Hankow railroad 40 miles north of the junction city of Shihkiachwang, was captured Oct. 27.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

WIVES WANT GI'S HOME——AT HOME VETS RE-ENLIST. Contrast is the theme of the pictures above taken in Pittsburgh. At the top, some of a group of 300 wives are shown jamming a telegraph office to send telegrams to Congress demanding the immediate return and release from the Army of all fathers and combat veterans. And while the women are besieging Washington to send their men home, 31 discharged veterans, lower photo, are shown as they prepare to leave for Fort Mead, Md., to re-enlist in the Army because of labor strife and lack of jobs. War Devices To Aid In 3rd Dimension Study

By International News Service

WASHINGTON — Devices of total global warfare are now ready for use in furthering the studies of botany, geography and social sciences in the nation's high schools.

The Navy and the U. S. department of education announced jointly that the terrain-modeling technique used to plan beach-storming and pinpoint bombing operations is now available for use in schools to teach students how to make three-dimensional, colored models of their own localities.

"The process enables persons without previous experience in the teachnique to build terrain models economically and quickly with a minimum of equipment and materials," Cmdr. D. L. Hibbard, USNR, director of the Navy's special devices division, explained.

The Navy has prepared a simplified basic manual, "How to build terrain models," for distribution to high schools. Maps, charts and photographs for use in the projects can be obtained from the Department of Agriculture, the United States geological survey, and the coast and geodetic survey, as well as state and county agents.

U. S. Commissioner of Education J. W. Studebaker stressed the project's value in its practical application to national problems such as flood control, soil conservation, air transportation studies and town and road planning.

He declared that "model making should become an integral part of the school structure, a permanent addition to the tools of teaching."

3-WEEK WALKOUT AT GALION PLANT ENDS

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 23—The Central Ohio Steel Products company's factory here was open and work resumed this morning, and it is expected that normal production will be reached Monday. The plant had been closed since Nov. 1 when production workers walked out, affecting 150 workers. They had been idle for 22 days on Wednesday when negotiations were completed and papers signed between the company and Local Lodge 1151, International Association of Machinists (AFL). The union had voted to accept a counter-proposal of the company which made an adjustment in rates. The gain by employes will be about 10 per cent although it does not quite come to the rates asked last June by the workers. The proposed rates are the new day rates applicable to all day workers and also the base rates for the incentive system.

Papers were drawn up by A. T. Pinkney, U. S. commissioner of conciliation, who was called in by union representatives to aid in the settlement.

The Galion plant is a leading maker of steel grave vaults and dump bodies.

GI BANDIT GETS $600

By The Associated Press

HAMILTON, O., Nov. 23 — A lone bandit obtained more than $600 in cash yesterday in a holdup at the Ohio Bus Lines depot on High street, less than 100 feet from the Hamilton police station. Elden Brack, cashier at the depot, quoted the bandit as saying: "I hate to do this but I just got out of the Army and need the cash." He escaped in an automobile.

St. Mary's Cagers Get Set for Opener with Harpster

Coach Irvin Cuts Squad to 16 Men; Three New Battles Added to Season Schedule.

By BILL COULTER

Coach Nelson Irvin has reduced his St. Mary High cage squad to sixteen and is trying to get these boys in shape for the first game with Harpster on December 11. This game originally scheduled for December 4 has been delayed one week.

Mr. Irvin is building his squad around four returning lettermen, Bob Irvin, Tom Moran and Pat Bray.

The Irish are holding their practices at the Armory gym on Monday and Wednesday evenings and at the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday and Thursdays. In addition to the four lettermen, there are several boys making a strong bid for first team positions, who saw some action last season. Three games have recently been added to the St. Mary basketball schedule now bringing it up to a total of nineteen. These games include two with Lima St. Rose and a single game with Tiffin Calvert.

Following is a complete schedule for the season:

Dec. 11—Harpster (H)
Dec. 14—Lima St. Gerard (T)
Dec. 18—Sunbury (T)
Dec. 21—Crestline (H)
Dec. 28—Claridon (T)
Dec. 29—Pleasant (H)
Jan. 4—Marysville (T)*
Jan. 8—Lima St. Rose (H)
Jan. 11—Richwood (T)*
Jan. 15—Sunbury (H)
Jan. 18—Mt. Gilead (H)*
Jan. 22—Cardington (T)
Jan. 25—Marysville (T)*
Jan. 29—Lima St. Rose (T)
Feb. 1—Richwood (H)*
Feb. 5—Tiffin Calvert (T)
Feb. 8—Open
Feb. 12—Columbus St. Mary (H)
Feb. 16 Lima St. Girard (H)
Feb. 22—Mt. Gilead (T)*

HONOR "CHAMP" COACH

By The Associated Press

SALEM, O., Nov. 23—Coach Charles Mather of the undefeated Leetonia Bears was named Columbiana county's "Coach of the Year" in a poll of football coaches, officials and newspapermen. Mather's team claimed the mythical Ohio Class "B" scholastic championship after trouncing Copley High school 46 to 8 in a postseason match.

WINS ELKS EVENT

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Nov. 23 — Marshall Rowlette, Indiana university sophomore, outclassed 12 competitors yesterday as he dashed to an easy victory in the Elks lodge six-mile running race. His time was 32 minutes and 23 seconds. William Mihalo of Detroit, National AAU walking champ, won the six-mile walking race held in conjunction with the running event. He scored the distance in 48 minutes, 32 and five-tenth seconds.

BUCKS HEAD NORTH FOR LAST-HOPE TILT AGAINST MICHIGAN

Winner Will Be Champion If Hoosiers Take Upset; Team in Top Shape.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23 — Ohio State's Bucks headed for the north today and their last stand in defense of the Western conference football championship.

Tomorrow afternoon they'll square away against Michigan's thrice-beaten Wolverines in another renewal of one of the middle west's most hotly contested gridiron rivalries.

And once again, there is a chance that the winner of the game will be crowned the Big Ten champion. That will come about if Purdue upsets Indiana at Bloomington, Ind.

The Bucks, 36 strong, went through their last heavy workout yesterday and Coach Carroll Widdoes said the squad "was in its best condition of the season."

The backs worked particularly on pass defense. All week long, Ohio coaches have stressed the potency of Michigan's passing attack and there have been times this season when the Buck aerial defense has been a bit on the weak side.

The team will work out briefly at Ann Arbor.

Widdoes indicated the startling lineup would be:

Jimmy Crane and Tom Watson at ends; Thornton Dixon and Russ Thomas at tackles; Warren Amling and Bob McGinnis at guards; Jack Lininger at center; Robin Priday at quarterback; Dick Fisher and Hal Daugherty at halfbacks and Ollie Cline at fullback.

The game at Ann Arbor will be the last of the season involving an Ohio college team.

Miami, Cincinnati and Wilberforce closed out their schedules yesterday, Miami drubbing Cincinnati, 28 to 14, and Wilberforce licking West Virginia State, 20 to 6.

Miami, finishing its season with a record of seven victories and two defeats, piled up a three-touchdown lead in the first half against the heavier Bearcats. A 56-yard run by Bob Weiche of Hamilton produced the first touchdown.

Here are two great ends who are bound to receive quite a few All-America votes. Paul Walker of Yale is the Blue's captain while Henry Foldberg of Army is a Plebe at West Point. Walker is playing his last season for Old Eli and has been a powerful influence in the line. As for Foldberg, many coaches say he tops every wingman in the country and makes the Army team the best of them all with his great blocking and tackling.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—In the light of the effort of the "Ivy league" colleges to set up a new football purity code, the sensation of 1929—Bulletin 23 of the Carnegie Foundation—makes interesting reading. . . . That was the 350-page publication which was supposed to have scared a lot of schools into mending their athletic ways. . . . But it's surprising to see how many of the "abuses" listed still are common practices and how the new "Ivy" agreement goes back to those 16-year-old proposals for correcting the evils that blossomed out after World War I.

When an inquiring fan asked Reid Mosely, Georgia's star end, if he'd like to make the All-Southeastern or All-America teams this year (and who wouldn't?) Reid wisecracked: "What I'd really like to do is to make Georgia's first team." . . . Mose rarely starts a game but Wally Butts sends him in as soon as Georgia gets into scoring position.

RAMS BEAT DETROIT, NAB DIVISION TITLE

Will Face Eastern Section Winner for Pro Crown.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—The title business in the western end of the National Football league is settled, but there still are complications in the eastern division.

Washington and Philadelphia meet in the City of Brotherly Love Sunday in a situation similar to the one which prevailed at Detroit yesterday before Cleveland's Bob Waterfield passed and ran the Rams to a 28-21 victory over the Lions.

The victory clinched the western division title for Cleveland—the first time since the Rams entered the league in 1937 that they ever finished above third place.

Washington, with six wins and one loss, can all but clinch the eastern division title, and a berth in the inter-divisional championship game, by beating Philadelphia Sunday. The Eagles have won five and lost two.

OLLIE CLINE SECOND IN BALL-CARRYING

DALLAS, Nov. 23—Ollie Cline, Ohio State's 210-pound fullback, came from nowhere to second place in national collegiate ball-carrying on the heels of the year's greatest two-game surge—63 tries for 412 yards.

The Buckeye star was shy only 63 yards of drawing abreast of Bob Fenimore, Oklahoma A. and M.'s All America, through games of Nov. 10, and had the same number of contests left as blond Bob to whittle down the flying cowboy's lead.

Figures released today by Homer F. Cooke Jr., director of the National Collegiate Athletic bureau, showed that Fenimore, in six games, romped 846 yards. Cline in seven rolled to 783.

Kiss the Title Bye Bye—Harrison Advises Bucks

By HAROLD HARRISON
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23 — 'Tis the end of the road for the man who knows—or thinks he knows—the Ohio college football winners.

After correctly naming the winner in 15 of the last 16 games to boost the season average to .790 on 64 hits, 17 errors and three ties, were going it all alone this week. The crystal ball is in storage; it's the day before payday so we don't have a coin to flip, and the fancy brunette at the next desk has been told to keep her opinions to herself.

So it's stand or fall on this last selection.

Ohio State at Michigan — Come the start of the fourth period Saturday, Ohio State may be behind or if the Bucks are ahead it probably will be by only a hairline margin but then it will be "Katy Bar the Door." The winner — Ohio State — and the score — 21 to 13.

(P. S.: There is nothing like a little success to cause a guy to get chesty and since Ohioans have an ear tuned toward Bloomington, Ind., Saturday, we'll give you a sad, sad tip. The Bucks are going to have to give up their Western conference championship. Just as a free-for-nothing selection, it's Indiana over Purdue.)

HEN PHEASANTS COSTLY

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Navy's line probably will not face the acid test until it goes up against Army's All-America twins, Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis. Then it will be something like an irresistible force meeting an immovable object.

The responsibility of stopping the powerful plunging Blanchard and the speedy Davis at Philadelphia on Dec. 1 rests upon the shoulders of 43-year-old Edgar E. Miller, more illustriously known as Rip, Navy's veteran line coach. Just what man — or men — Rip plans to put on the two stars is a secret, but thus far this season the Navy line is as good, or better, than Miller predicted before the campaign started.

Six of the first team linemen played in the Army-Navy game last fall. The only newcomer is Richard U. Scott, a plebe who is the lightest man on the line. He weighs 188 pounds and is using just about every ounce of it at center. He comes from Highland Falls, N. Y., which is just outside West Point's gates.

"Army Missed Him"

Scott's father ran Army's Cadet store for more than 20 years.

"We're weak at center," said Miller before the season began. "But Scott is a nice looker and I think West Point missed him."

Against Duke, Scott really stood out. Experts rated him as the week's oustanding lineman.

Rip, one of the "Seven Mules" who played in front of the "Four Horsemen" on Notre Dame's unbeaten 1924 national champions was sure of only four linemen making the grade when practice began.

He was set with veterans Ed Deramee and Jim Carrington at guard and boxer Leon Bramlett and Dick Duden, 1944 quarterback, at end. He thought Scott looked all right at center with John (Bo) Coopedge and Charley Kiser at the tackles.

That's just the way Navy has lined up all season. And the opposition scored only once in the first four games.

"Outside of the ends and guards," said Rip, "it will be a dogfight for the rest of the positions. However, the situation is much healthier than a year ago because everyone on the squad has a chance and knows it.

"Coppedge, understudy to big Don Whitmire last year, is a pleasant surprise. Kiser, third string last year, might make the other tackle. Jack Currence, a Plebe guard, might be heard from. (Currence made seven straight placements against Villanova.)

GLENN DAVIS
ARMY'S VETERAN ALL-AMERICAN BACK
DAVIS IS A SCORING THREAT EVERY TIME HE CARRIES THE BALL. HE CAN COVER 100 YARDS FASTER THAN ANY MAN IN FOOTBALL TODAY

"This line hasn't the experience, but I'm not weeping.

"With the T we must have agile, quick, active men up front so the heavier men are taking a back seat this time for 190 and 195-pounders."

The Ripper must have been thinking about Army, for his Middie line averages 200 pounds. Army's hits 210.

This is Rip's 20th season on the banks of the Severn. After playing three years of tackle at Notre Dame, he became Indiana line coach in 1925 under Navy Bill Ingram. In 1926 he came to Navy with Ingram and has been here ever since. From 1931 through 1933 he was Navy's head coach.

Rip was called to active duty with the Naval Reserve in July 1942. He rose to the rank of full commander and recently was returned to inactive status. Now he's Mr. Miller to the Middies, but "Rip" to his legion of admirers

LaRue 4-Letter Star Discharged by Navy

Special to The Star

LARUE—Robert Jones, M.M.3/c, a member of the 1943 Marion county basketball championship team, is home from the Navy after being honorably discharged from Toledo Separation center Nov. 14. He reported in June 1943 and saw active service in many Pacific areas.

Jones is the only boy in LaRue High school history to ever earn four letters in two sports, having been a regular on the football team four years ago also performing with the basketball quintet during all four seasons of high school. On July 13, 1944, he was married to Rayda Roux of LaRue. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Jones.

MARYSVILLE CURFEW ORDERED BY COUNCIL

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Nov. 21—Curfew will sound again in Marysville as the result of action at a special meeting of city council. To help enforce the new curfew ordinance Mayor William Asman is to sign a contract this week for parking meters, from which funds derived will be used to employ an extra night police officer and possibly the purchase of a cruiser.

Juvenile Judge John W. Dailey urged the council to do something about the juvenile problem in Marysville. He charged there has been more juvenile crime committed in Marysville and throughout the county during the past 90 days than any comparative period he could remember.

The new ordinance provides that children under 18, unaccompanied by either parent, must be off the streets by 9:30 p. m. and out of local business establishments by that time.

TWO RICHWOOD BOYS CHASTISED BY JUDGE

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, Nov. 21—Two Richwood boys were arraigned in Mayor Charles Brown's office in Richwood before Juvenile Judge John W. Dailey on Monday on a number of charges.

One, 14, accused of tire theft, with breaking and entering several homes in Richwood and with illegal possession of stolen property, was placed in the custody of his parents. He was ordered to report each week to Ralph Lennox, Richwood business man, as to his behavior and conduct.

The second, 17, also charged with breaking and entering homes in Richwood and with tire theft and other charges, had a working permit revoked and was ordered back to school. His right to drive an automobile was also revoked.

He was ordered to report in person to F. LeRoy Allen, Richwood attorney and former common pleas judge, each week as to his conduct and behavior and each month he is to report in juvenile court here with a relative in whose custody he was placed.

WED IN GERMANY

BUCYRUS, Nov. 23—Word of a wedding in Heidelberg, Germany, Oct. 19, which united First Lt. Naomi B. Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wagner, North Robinson road, and Capt. Kenneth E. Holland of Lincoln, Neb., has been received. The bride is a graduate of North Robinson High school and of White Cross hospital nurses training school. She has been overseas 26 months. Capt. Holland is a dentist.

GALION CAGERS OPEN PRACTICE ON MONDAY

Special to The Star

GALION, Nov. 23—With Thanksgiving out of the way, the basketball season is next on the slate of activities, Coach Robert Shaffer of Galion high school expects about 35 boys out for practice which will start on Monday.

With a number of only two lettermen around which to build a team this year, Coach Shaffer will have to look for new material by about next Wednesday, he expects to have the 35 boys whittled down to eleven or twelve for a prospective varsity outfit.

Bob Neff, a veteran of last year, will captain the team, and the only other lettermen is Joe McGuire who played center last season.

The schedule starts Dec. 7 with Findlay here. Other games will be played as follows: Dec. 11, Delaware here, Dec. 14, Ashland here, Dec. 18, Crestline here, Dec. 21, Mt. Gilead here, Dec. 28, Upper Sandusky there, Jan. 4, Bucyrus there, Jan. 11, Shelby there, Jan. 18, Bellevue here, Jan. 25, Norwalk there, Jan. 26, Lima Central here, Feb. 1, Willard there, Feb. 5, Crestline there, Feb. 8, Bucyrus here, Feb. 15, Shelby here, Feb. 25, Norwalk here.

N. Y. BOXER FAVORED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23—Light-heavyweight Bill Muscato of Buffalo, N. Y., is favored by the betting gentry to defeat Willie Barrow of Detroit in a 10-round headliner at the Metropolitan A. C. tonight. Betting odds on Muscato, third-ranking contender in his boxing class, tumbled from 7 to 5 to slightly better than even money.

Waite Drops A-Bomb on Scott, Eyes Post-Season Title Game

By The Associated Press

Toledo Waite looked ahead today to a Dec. 1 post-season date with Canton Lincoln and a chance to nail down what could very well be the No. 1 claim to the mythical Ohio high school football championship.

Waite wound up its regular schedule yesterday in a blaze of glory by registering a 52 to 0 victory over Toledo Scott — its 10th triumph in a row without a defeat or a tie.

The game with Canton Lincoln pits the Toledoans against a club also unbeaten but tied by Massillon and Canton McKinley. And Massillon, of course is the team that threw the high school championship picture into utter confusion by tying with five major contenders.

The thin program of games yesterday left the Cleveland Cathedral Latin-Cleveland St. Ignatius and the Waite-Lincoln tilts as the only major contests remaining on the 1945 program. Latin and St. Ignatius play tomorrow for the Cleveland senate championship.

East Liverpool, with a record marred only by two ties, also strengthened its bid yesterday for championship honors by walloping Wellsville, 54 to 0.

The Akron city championship went to Akron Garfield which nosed out Akron South 7 to 0. It gave Garfield a season record of no defeats and two ties.

Cincinnati Western Hills handed Cincinnati Elder a sound 26 to 6 drubbing and Cincinnati Roger Bacon was a 13 to 6 victor over Hamilton Catholic.

Youngstown had an "all-star" squeezing past Cleveland, 3 to 2, in a Thanksgiving night game at Hershey. In another holiday game the Indianapolis Capitals

LEADERS DROP OVER 2 POINTS

Strike News Again Blamed for Declines; Selling Slows Somewhat.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—Selling slowed appreciably in today's stock market but there was enough of it to extend declines for leaders to more than two points.

Trimming of accounts again was blamed mainly on widespread strikes.

Dealings tapered after a fairly active opening and near the fourth hour losses were well in the majority.

Best prices for a year or longer were posted for Electric & Musical Industries, Shamrock Oil, Warner Bros. and National Supply. Resistant were Standard Oil (NJ), Northern Pacific, Glenn Martin and American Water Works. Casualties were General Motors, Chrysler, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Bendix Aviation, American Telephone, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Anaconda and Dow Chemical.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

The undersigned, Iva A. Miller, Hazel Rutherford, and Helen Louise Ross will receive sealed bids at the Nevada Deposit Bank, Nevada, Ohio, for the sale of the real estate hereinafter described until 2:00 p. m. on Saturday, November 24, 1945; the real estate being sold belonged in part to Charles P. Miller, prior to his decease, and in part to the undersigned Iva A. Miller, and is described as follows:

Situated in the County of Crawford, State of Ohio, and in the Township of Tod, and described as follows:

Known as the west half (½) of the southwest quarter (¼) of Section Twenty-five (25), in Township Two (2) south, Range Fifteen (15) east, always excepting and reserving One (1) acre of land out of the west side of said west half (½) for a graveyard or burying ground, and containing, less said exception, 79 acres, more or less.

Also about 18.5 acres out of the south part of the west half (½) of the northwest quarter (¼) of said Section Twenty-five (25), Township Two (2) south, Range Fifteen (15) east.

Said real estate will be accurately described by metes and bounds in the deed hereinafter referred to.

The aforesaid described real estate consists of 97 acres, more or less, and is situated just south of the Village of Oceola, Crawford County, Ohio.

On said date, and at said time, at said bank, the undersigned will open or cause to be opened all sealed bids, and all those who have submitted sealed bids can be present when the bids are opened, and the highest bid announced, and any bidder or bidders shall have the right to raise his or their respective bid or bids and continue to do so until the highest and best bid shall be ascertained.

The real estate being offered for sale is nearly all farmable real estate, and the buildings and fences are in fair condition, and in general, the farm is well improved. The undersigned will pay all taxes for the year 1945, and will deliver possession within a reasonable time after sale shall consummated, and deed containing general covenants of warranty delivered.

Said sale shall be made for cash to the successful bidder on the date given above. Further information will be given as to possession, taxes, crops, etc., at the time of opening said bids, or inquiry can be made as to any matters in connection with said sale of Attorneys Hall & Naus, Upper Sandusky, Ohio. HUNGRY JAPS LOOT ARMY'S STOREHOUSE

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Nov. 22 An American warehouse was broken into by rioting, hungry Japanese at Sendai today, while warlords whose dreams of conquest and brought incipient famine surrendered one by one to Allied jailers.

Two hundred Japanese laborers ransacked the Army warehouse, taking food and other items, Sendai police reported. The police arrested 180 persons, including 94 women.

Gen. Kunaki Koiso, successor to Pearl Harbor Premier Hideki Tojo, surrendered this afternoon at Sugamo prison. He is the third of 11 warlords newly listed by General MacArthur to surrender on war crimes charges and he protested:

"We believe in our innocence."

Baron Gen. Sadao Araki, known as "the highest priest of the military cult," and Yoshishisa Kuzuu, head of the terroristic Black Dragon society, surrendered yesterday.

RYE DRAGS WHEAT, OATS PRICES DOWN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 23—Rye futures again broke sharply in late trade today and carried wheat and oats downward also.

Rye dropped around the 5 cent a bushel daily limit, discouraged by losses at Winnipeg again today and a downturn of the 5 cent limit in the Minneapolis market. December rye lost around 10 cents in the last two sessions.

Wheat and oats had been firm early, with wheat traders encouraged by export reports and commercial interests reported buying oats. Feed interests were reported back in the oats cash market for supplies.

TWO CARS IN COLLISION

A collision at 8:35 a. m. today on Route 23 approximately five miles south of Marion resulted in minor damage to cars driven by Ernest White of 1371½ Garden street and Wilbur Jacoby of East Center street, state patrolmen reported. The collision occurred when Jacoby stopped in the road apparently to clear his windshield. White was unable to stop in time because of the slippery roads, according to the report. Both were driving south.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

NO one has ever accused the Georges, fugitive king of Trees, of using courage [illegible] cal or mental and his brown dark eyes met mine steadily as I told him that he [illegible] very [illegible] into our apartment [illegible] treaty, the last puppy for him.

"No, I do not [illegible]," he said "and I wish you would explain your meaning to me."

Give Reason

"Very well, then. I said. "You [illegible] me. I'm bluff. My reason is simple, too. I do not wish to take any chance of your seeing Mary or Noel again."

The [illegible] at the [illegible] mouth were [illegible] deeply and [illegible] a thin line before they [illegible] to let out a single explosive monosyllable.

"Why?"

"If you do not already know," I said, [illegible] then perhaps I had better explain it to you in words of one syllable or thereabouts."

I drew a deep breath and dashed into the fray.

"In the first place Georges, I said, "you and Mary have been playing around with TNT for quite a while. I do not think you realized just how murderous Noel's anger was becoming, and I do not think you cared. Nobody ever has questioned your physical bravery. But you should have thought of the consequences to Mary, and protected her by leaving her alone."

Harries On

"Oh, I know what you could say" I hurried on, "what you are too chivalrous to say—that Mary was as much to blame for the flirtation as you were. That is true. However, Mary has come to her senses, completely, but—forgive me—I think you still would relish a little playing with fire and danger. You would get what my boys call a kick out of going into that apartment, bidding them all goodbye, and then kissing Mary's hands tenderly while Noel looked on."

His face was brick-red now, but I went relentlessly on.

"You cannot resist that last [illegible] the joy of [illegible] a last farewell [illegible] caring for Mary before [illegible] our husbands. After [illegible] a few minutes ago [illegible] truth to a girl who [illegible] took of another man."

Bitter Laugh

Georges gave a bitter little laugh. A weird [illegible] pleasure to hear.

"[illegible] has [illegible] more than one [illegible]. Now, at a different time [illegible] tone.

I shaken back in astonished gulp. So that was one of the [illegible] of having [illegible] play for Mary. [illegible] of Noel's [illegible] had only had Olina [illegible] been betrothed to the brilliant young composer but because she [illegible] had tried to take Noel away [illegible] his wife.

I am sure that he did not know—that Olina had not confessed to him—her reason for attempting to alienate Mary's husband. Jealousy of Mary and love for Georges had motivated Olina and I found myself glad that she had not told him that particular thing. She might not have found time to tell him, but I hoped that she deliberately had withheld the confession. It could not do Glamorous Georges any [illegible] of harm to take a bit of uneasiness over Olina with him.

But it was not my province to agree with him. Instead I made my voice delicately scornful.

A Bit Silly

"Aren't you being a bit silly?" I said. "You are too big a man to stoop to jealousy of—"

"Jealousy!" he almost bellowed. "Jealousy of that moronic fellow who invites his soul to tea and recites his marital woes!"

I do not think I ever had a harder task than to conquer my laughter muscles and present a straight face to Georges' tirade. But he stopped in mid-air as it were, and made his voice cold and decisive.

"There's no use going on with this," he said. "Your mind is evidently made up, and as a gentleman, I must bow to your decision. I shall stay here with Gus and await your pleasure."

* * *

GEORGES, fugitive king of Trees, bowed from the waist as he yielded to my ultimatum.

But as I walked away from him and down the stairs to the next floor on which my own apartment was located, I had a curious little feeling that I had not come off the absolute winner of the contest of wills.

Yet I was certain that my position was right, and I fought off the sensation of being somewhat in the wrong that was haunting me.

Hypnotic Influence

But by the time I had put my key in the lock of our own hall door, my common sense had returned and banished Georges' distinctly hypnotic influence. I had done the only right thing, I decided, but I hesitated before opening the door with a wish that Mary and Noel were not inside.

My wish was granted. Only three people were in evidence—the same three who had been there when I left—Jack and Katharine seated close to Dicky's wheel chair and all three chatting merrily together.

But the instant they caught sight of me, Dicky and Jack each seized one of Katharine's arms and pretended to twist it.

"It's a good thing you've come back," my husband said. "She's so weak from the torture now that I doubt whether she'll survive. But she hasn't blabbed a syllable."

Will Reveal All

"I knew she wouldn't," I said serenely, as I tossed Katharine a smile and walked toward the desk. "But I will reveal all in a few minutes, just as soon as I get back."

"Back!" Dicky ejaculated, sending his wheel chair in my direction. "No, you don't! This is too much! You just did get back! And I can tell you now, old dear, you're going out of this apartment again only over my dead body! You're going to tell us what you promised before you stir again."

"I am afraid you'll have to do then," I said callously, "for what I am doing now has to do with some of Father's 'hush hush' business. If you let me alone I'll be back in a very few minutes, so please DESIST!"

I laughed at Dicky as I put the word in capitals, and he gave me an answering grin.

The Only Password

"You've given the only password," he said "and we'll lay off. But can't you just give us a little hint of what's doing while you work?"

"Is Mary anywhere around?" I asked. "Or Noel?"

"No, they're both safe down in their own little love nest," Dicky said.

"Then," I said opening the desk, unlocking the drawer and taking from it the crumpled papers I had picked up from the boys' bathroom where Georges had dropped them, "Georges is on the next landing above this with Gus as guardian waiting for me."

Dicky gave an explosive guffaw and slapped his knee.

An Efficient Chaperon

"Well, I imagine Gus will make an efficient chaperon," he said. "But what really gives?"

"Georges dropped some very important papers when he was in the boys' bathroom," I explained, "code messages from Olga to her son, Pietro. I found them, not guessing what they were, and put them in here. Georges just now came posthaste to the Philip Vantzen apartment after them, and here is something you'll love — when he realized I'd found them and he had a few extra minutes, he asked, first, for a few more minutes with Olina, and then when I refused that request he—"

"Don't tell us. I know," Katharine broke in. "He asked permission to see Mary once more, didn't he?"

Mackenzie Starts Overseas To View Crisis First Hand

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

By the time this column is in print, you and I will be starting a fresh adventure abroad—first stop England.

—I'm hoping you will go along in spirit, for the sole purpose of this trip is to enable you and me to get behind the scenes of the great crisis which is ushering in a new world epoch. Our old globe never before has seen anything approaching the travail of this change.

D. Mackenzie

Take Europe: Vast reaches are so battered and torn by the instruments of war that millions are without homes. Thousands upon thousands are perishing of starvation and disease, and others are facing death from these same grim killers. Hungry hordes are roving the countrysides, pillaging and murdering that they themselves may live.

In the midst of all things—and partly because of it—there is the great social revolution which has touched every country and has broken many wide open. Europe is being reborn—and the pangs of labor are cruel.

Knows It Well

It has been my privilege to know Europe almost as well as I know the cozy study in which this is being written near New York. But now the earthquake of war has changed even the face of the land. I have to go back and pick up where I left off on my last trip of 1942-43.

Our trip across the Atlantic is likely to be easy and quick enough for we shall fly in one of the great new clippers which wing their way over in 15 hours or so. That will be far different from my first crossing in 1916. I haven't the slightest idea how many times I've spanned the Atlantic, but I'll never forget that first trip.

I went from New York to Liverpool on the steamer St. Louis, a ship of less than 6,000 tons which would have made a dandy life-boat for our present-day 85,000 ton Queen Elizabeth. My fare (plus $5 tax) was $100.

The St. Louis was built some five years before Britain's Queen Victoria died. The St. Louis lurched and rumbled and belched like a fat dowager in her cups. The sea was at its worst and we had to have rocks on the tables to keep the dishes from shooting off across the saloon.

Finally we staggered into fog-shrouded Liverpool and I spent my first night in a high-ceilinged hotel room which contained the biggest bed, clothed with the coldest sheets, I ever had encountered. In the bleak morning I noticed a little fireplace, and I rang a bell which summoned a chambermaid. I asked for a fire and received a stare of blank amazement which told me I had in some way overstepped the bounds.

However, the maid started a smudge with soft coal which quickly filled the room with dense smoke. That fireplace hadn't been used for years. I had an even greater eye-opener when I asked for a bath. The servant brought a big metal tub which she placed in the middle of the room. She put a sheet in it and then filled it with water by making many trips with a can.

Oh, well, that was thirty years ago. You and I will be whisked across the ocean on a magic carpet, but I warn you that during our later travels we shall have some tough times.

SAILOR BRINGS HOME BABY GIVEN HIM ON TRAIN. Eleven-month-old Sandra Lee gurgles happily in the arms of Sailor Don Caffrey and his wife. Caffrey says the baby was given him by its mother on the train which brought the sailor home from two years' combat. The Caffreys told juvenile court in Omaha, they want to adopt the child because the mother might try to reclaim it.

HOLIDAY IS MARKED BY UNION SERVICES

Churches Join in Programs in Thanksgiving Observance.

Three union Thanksgiving services in Marion county Wednesday night sponsored by the Marion County Ministerial association drew an attendance of almost 700, officers of the association reported today. A total offering of $111.65 will go for overseas relief and rehabilitation. Services were held in Calvary Evangelical church, Forest Lawn Presbyterian church and LaRue Baptist church.

The largest attendance ever present for a union Thanksgiving service, 436, was reported at Calvary church when downtown and West Side churches of Marion met together Wednesday. Dr. Ambrose M. Bailey of Trinity Baptist church spoke on "Assets of Thanksgiving," the Epworth Methodist choir presented "Now Thank We All Our God," and ministers taking part included Rev. J. H. Canada; Rev. Howard J. Olewiler, First Presbyterian church; Rev. H. V. Falor, Oakland Evangelical church; and Rev. Claire T. Crenshaw, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church; Mrs. J. W. Baker was organist and Rev. R. W. Faulkner, host pastor. The offering amounted to $83.15.

An audience of over 200 gathered in Forest Lawn Presbyterian church Wednesday night when a union Thanksgiving service for the east side of the city was held there. Rev. H. M. McAdow of Wesley Methodist church, president of the Ministerial association, spoke and taking part were Rev. Eldred Johnston, Central Christian church; Rev. Gertrude Kates, Park Street A. M. E. church; Rev. E. M. Hertzler, First Church of the Brethren; Rev. E. H. Wierth, First Evangelical and Reformed church; and Rev. L. V. Bauguess, host pastor. An offering of $22.50 was received.

Rev. Garrison Roebuck of First United Brethren church of Marion spoke at the union Thanksgiving service in the LaRue Baptist church Wednesday night. Congregations and ministers taking part were the host church, Rev. Douglas G. McCreight, pastor; LaRue Methodist, Rev. Clarke Davis, pastor; and the New Bloomington and Meeker Methodist churches, Rev. G. C. Nutter, pastor. An attendance of 54 presented an offering of $6.

Churchill and Bevin Clash on Greek Issue

LONDON, Nov. 23 — Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin clashed in commons today over the labor government suggestion of a three-year postponement of the Greek plebiscite on the fate of the monarchy.

Bevin precipitated the argument during a debate on foreign affairs by saying he had suggested the vote be held by March, 1948.

Storming to his feet, the wartime prime minister shouted:

"A delay of two or three years" on the question of a monarchy or republic "would be wrong for it is a burning question in Greece."

Bevin snapped back: "I defy anybody to run a plebiscite in Greece at the present time."

OPA DISTRICTS MERGED

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23—John H. Summers, Columbus OPA district director, reported today the Columbus and Cincinnati districts would be merged Dec. 31. The Columbus district embraces 34 counties and the Cincinnati area 16 counties. Simultaneous merger of the Cleveland and Toledo OPA districts also was reported here to have been ordered.

Blue, symbolic of dark sea waters, and gold, representing the Naval uniform ornaments and braid, have been the official colors of the U. S. Naval Academy since 1892.

U. S. TO KEEP LID ON ITS A-BOMB SUPPLY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—Atomic bombs now being made in the United States almost certainly will remain here until the United Nations act on proposed world control measures.

No question of sharing physical possession of the bombs even with Britain has arisen officially, it was learned today from top government informants. Their hope as it may never have to arise.

American policy, these authorities said, is pegged to international handling of the whole range of atomic problems. Hence officials would like to avoid any impression that this country and Britain were dividing up the bombs between them as if in preparation for a war which actually they are seeking to prevent.

Former Prime Minister Churchill told parliament Nov. 7 that Britain, which helped develop the bomb, should aid the United States in guarding it "as a sacred trust" until eventually the United Nations take over. Then, he added, the British should make the bombs and should have them in Britain "even if manufactured elsewhere" with the least possible delay.

With Tears in Eyes, Halsey Steps Down As 3rd Fleet Head

By The Associated Press

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 23—At 63 Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey, a sturdy sailor who served his country for 45 years, has relinquished command of the Third fleet.

His blue four-starred flag was hauled down from the main truck of his flagship, the battleship South Dakota, in colorful ceremonies yesterday as the admiral released command of the fleet that so readily steamed along the Japanese coast and poured thousands of tons of damage on the enemy.

Halsey's voice trembled and his eyes misted as he spoke briefly before the two-starred flag of his successor, Rear Admiral Howard F. Kingman, replaced his.

"This is far from a pleasure. But I deem it necessary for men of my age to step aside so that younger men can take over the greatest navy in the world," Halsey said.

RIOTS HIT CALCUTTA

By The Associated Press

CALCUTTA, Nov. 23 — Twenty thousand municipal workers went on strike in turbulent Calcutta today as disorders touched off by the resumption of the trial of members of the Indian National army swept the city for the third day. The rioting has taken the lives of at least 15 persons and resulted in injuries to 150 others, including 12 American soldiers.

AWARDED $35,000 — Struck by a bus in Philadelphia last January, Dayton Graves (above), one-legged lathe operator lost his remaining leg as a result of injuries sustained. He is pictured in his home as he received the news that a U. S. federal court court awarded him $35,000 damages for the loss of the limb.

FIRE DAMAGES CHURCH

Endocreme helps restore that youthful look to face and throat

Would you like the skin of your face, your throat, to grow younger looking again? If so, try ENDOCREME. ENDOCREME, with its 8-year record of success, is helping thousands to improve the very skin itself, not merely its superficial appearance. For thousands, it is doing this to a degree heretofore thought impossible. The secret of ENDOCREME'S success is ACTIVOL This ACTIVOL is a scientific replacement for woman's own skin-vitalizing substance. Thus, when you apply ENDOCREME, it is absorbed by the skin and helps to restore normal growth of cells and tissues. Thus, ageing, dry, coarse, lined skins tend to become fresher, firmer, smoother, more youthfully attractive. How better can you invest your cosmetic dollars? Many report marked improvement in only 30 days.

SOCIAL IS HELD AT PLEASANT TP. SCHOOL

Homemakers Club Entertains at Thanksgiving Party.

Families of the members together with members of the Young Men, s Farm club and their families were guests when the Homemakers club entertained with a family dinner and Thanksgiving party Monday night at the Pleasant Township school. Covers were placed for 132 at tables decorated with fruits and vegetables.

For the program hour there was community singing led by Harold Patrick, accompanied by Pat Blank at the piano, and a welcome was extended by Mrs. Gail Smith, president of the hostess club. The response was given by Daniel Mautz, representing the Young Men's Farm club. Miss Medella Seiter conducted the devotions and music included selections by the Pleasant school quintet composed of Maxine Hawk, Alicia Zachman, Nellie Hogue, Mary Cusick and Pat Green, accompanied by Naomi Rider. Mrs. Ralph Wright was the guest entertainer and gave a group of humorous readings.

Mrs. Stella Mehaffey and Mrs. Wesley Seiter were honored as being the oldest mothers present and Mrs. George Lust as the youngest. Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Seiter and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Seiter were given recognition as the couples having been married for the longest period of time and Mr. and Mrs. William Rasey for having the largest family present.

Contests were won by Mrs. Robert Blank, Mrs Perry Seiter, Paul Augenstein, James Rush and Daniel Mautz. Judges were Mrs. LeRoy Dawson, Mrs. Lester Stewart, Miss Mary Mehaffey, Carl Hoch and Glen Hawk.

Serving on the entertainment committee were Mrs. Dale Lawrence, Mrs. Delbert Lichtenberger and Mrs. Leslie Bunnell and on the refreshment committee committee were Mrs Gail Smith, Mrs. Albert Yeager, Mrs. William Rasey, Mrs. Glenn Hawk, Mrs. Lester Stewart and Miss Gladys Uncapher.

A birthday cake marked the anniversary of Mrs. William Rasey and special recognition was given Gordon Eichhorn star farmer in the United States, and Mrs. Eichhorn, and Miss Mary Mautz who recently returned from duty with the Army Nursing Corps. Guests included Milford Schmidt, former agricultural instructor at Pleasant township school, who acted as instructor and advisor for Mr. Eichhorn for seven years, and Mrs. Smith and their daughter. Mr. Schmidt is now associated with the soil conservation program with headquarters in Delaware county.

Piles Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting, predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M. D.

Varicose Veins

To most persons, varicose veins in the legs, at least for a long time, are disturbing only because of their appearance. Varicose veins or varicosities, as they are also called, are veins that are enlarged or dilated. Just what causes the veins to become enlarged is not known. They may appear in young persons, as well as in older ones.

According to Doctor Louis N. Katz of Chicago, unless the varicosities are severe, they may be treated at first by wearing an elastic stocking up to the groin, and avoiding tight garters.

In many cases of varicose veins, an ulcer or sore forms on the skin, due to the fact that the blood supply to the tissues is not sufficient. These ulcers or sores may be treated by putting an elastic bandage over them, using dressing and antiseptic under the bandage.

If this type of treatment is not quickly effective, if there is dull aching or persistent ulcers which interfere with the patient's activities, or if fluids collect in the tissues, causing a condition known as edema, some type of surgical procedure is usually necessary.

According to Doctor Katz, a good procedure is to tie off the veins which are not working as they should. Such veins are called incompetent because the blood flows backward through them. A test known as Perthes' test may be used to tell when the veins are incompetent. This test is made by placing a rubber tube tightly around the upper thigh, and then having the patient walk about.

If the veins collapse during the exercise, it means that they are working properly. If the veins become swollen and distended, it means that they are incompetent and should be tied off.

After the incompetent veins have been tied off, the varicose veins lower down in the leg may be injected with a scarring solution such as a sugar and salt mixture or potassium oleate in the proper strength. Occasionally, the scarring solution may leak out of the vein and cause a great deal of swelling of the tissues. If this happens, immediate use of distilled water is indicated to dilute the scarring material.

Injection of varicose veins is not, as a rule, done in elderly persons or in those with heart disease, tuberculosis, or inflammation of the veins. In practically all instances, with proper treatment, varicose veins are less noticeable and ulcers keep from forming.

4,000-Foot Shaft Sunk To Reach Gold

By The Latest Press

LEAD, S. D. — Approximately $3,000,000 was poured down a hole the Homestake Mining Company dug into a mountain here—but it was not wasted.

The 4,250-foot hole, known as the Yates shaft, was sunk into the 5,316-foot mountain to reach gold ore bodies.

Sinking the shaft, 27 feet 8 inches by 15 feet and equipped with five elevators which operate at a maximum speed of 2,500 feet a minute required about two and a half years. As many as 125 men worked on the project at a time, and the cost, including the surface plant, was approximately $3,000,000.

The shaft was dug from several underground points which had been located by engineers. Tunnels were driven to the shaft location from underground workings. Six by eight foot pilot holes were cut at various points and widened to the full size of the shaft. Most of the pilot raises were driven 100 to 150 feet between levels but in one case it was necessary to drive the pilot raise 866 feet to make a connection.

Waste rock—approximately 185,000 tons—was drawn off at lower levels.

The shaft which eventually will be down 5,000 feet, is one of the deepest in the world. Deeper shafts are in the Michigan copper country, Canada, Brazil and South Africa. The deepest South African shaft is over 8,600 feet and one Canadian gold mine has a 6,800-foot shaft.

The elevator cages are used for movement of men and materials and for lifting gold ore.

WAVE Artist Paints New Eyes for Wounded Navy Men

MARY REARDON prepares plastic eye for service man.

By The Associated Press

BETHESDA, Md. — When she left her job as high school art supervisor to join the Waves pretty young Mary Reardon little realized her love of water-color painting would pay big dividends in rehabilitating hundreds of Navy veterans.

But as soon as the Navy discovered her artistic talent and good color sense, they trained Miss Reardon, along with eight other Waves, in a highly specialized and new field of medical art—painting "custom-made artificial plastic eyes."

These plastic eyes—painted from real life to reproduce exactly the seven colors remaining eye—have an important psychological job to do.

'They can give veterans a cheerful, confident adjustment to normal life,' Miss Reardon explains. 'You see, artificial eyes haven't always been devised to match the eye of one particular individual.'

Hospital Apprentice 1/c Mary Reardon is stationed at the new, 20-story Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, which houses 2,400 patients. The other Waves, who were trained at Bethesda with her, are working in naval hospitals across the country. Nine of them do all the art work on artificial eyes for the Navy.

Keeps Her Busy

Miss Reardon may have "sittings" with as many as 12 Navy men in a day. Since it takes her two hours to do a complete job and she usually makes two or three eyes before she is satisfied the men may have several appointments each.

She uses only the three primary colors to paint the iris—whether its blue, green, hazel or brown. Red, yellow and blue are apparently more permanent than other tints. The artist makes a water-color sketch on paper and then dips it into a thin plastic solution. Blue eyes are the hardest to paint, Miss Reardon says, because there are so many different tones of blue.

The water color sketches are next sealed on the plastic eyes, which have been molded to fit the patient before Miss Reardon starts work on them. Before the war, for the most part artificial eyes were imported from Germany. They were made of glass and were not designed for any one person. Then when imports were cut off and the necessity came along for inventing a substitute, the Bethesda Naval hospital's dental department got together with the medical illustration department. They devised a prosthetic eye—made from an exact anatomical 'impression' of the patient's eye socket.

Moves Naturally

This artificial eye thus has a functional use in that it can move the natural way a real one would. The artist reproduces the iris and sclera. But before that the anatomy of the eye is so constructed that there is complete duplication of form and light reflection of the other eye. The result is an important step in the man's rehabilitation.

A native of Belmont, Mass., Miss Reardon studied at the Massachusetts School of Art in Boston. After graduation, she supervised art in a school in New York Mills, N. Y. Right now, she doesn't know what kind of work she wants to do when the Navy is through with her. One thing she does know. She will go back to water-color painting—especially portrait painting, with a heightened sense of what goes into the human eye. The Navy has done her a good turn, she says. Now she knows a lot more about painting the most important feature in a face.

Miss Reardon is left-handed, eye conscious that she looks first of all at the eyes, even to see what kind of make-up she wears.

The self-lifting tractor is now a reality. It rises any height, up to four inches, virtually drawing itself up "by its own bootstraps." The lifting operation is accomplished by placing light tubular frames beneath the axles, connecting the rear to the two arms of a Ford-Ferguson tractor's hydraulic linkage and lightly touching the "finger-tip control" lever which is one feature of the Ferguson System. The entire operation takes less than one minute.

Let's Get Going

What this country needs is more goods, more production, more people working—

For four years America hasn't been producing enough of the things people need—new cars, new clothes, washing machines, radios, refrigerators—hundreds of necessities. We need these things—and we need them badly.

But what is happening? The whole postwar production program is in danger. Union leaders are closing down plants—or threatening to close them down—while they hold up industry for more wages for less work—

Instead of mounting production, there is mounting confusion. Fifty-two hours' pay for forty hours' work—"or else."

The public interest deserves more consideration than that—

The veterans are entitled to a better homecoming. Consumers are entitled to better treatment. The working men themselves deserve a better break.

Right now, what we need is production, production and more production—

America needs more goods—more people at work.

Let's get going!

Five Years Ago

MEMORIES are short. It is not easy to reconstruct the moods and events of five years ago. But testimony like that of Admiral James O. Richardson, retired, in the investigation of the Pearl Harbor attack will recall to many that in 1940 the imminence of war was a presidential campaign issue.

The threat of foreign war was moving closer. In October, the first inductees were drawn by lottery. Wendell Willkie charged that Franklin D. Roosevelt was leading the United States into war. In a particularly vicious rebuttal, Democrats said Adolf Hitler wanted Willkie to win the election. By election day, the war issue was paramount.

Willkie accused the Roosevelt administration of making gestures with an empty gun. Spokesmen for the administration, including Mr. Roosevelt himself, retorted that everything was in order; that our security was unassailable; and intimated broadly that there was no danger of involvement in war. Strategy of the presidential campaign for Mr. Roosevelt was to play down the possibility of war. The Republican candidate said America should not be dragged into the war without the consent of the people. The Democratic candidate denied categorically that war was the imminent possibility; the opposition said it was.

Admiral Richardson's testimony, of course, it to the opposite effect. In 1940, a little more than a year before the attack at Pearl Harbor, the United States was in imminent danger of becoming involved in World War II. It was not prepared, as men like Admiral Richardson knew. Though war was the principal thought in the minds of all responsible officials—not because they wanted war but because they knew it was inevitable—the people were advised time and time again that there was nothing to worry about. It was this same administration that was to tell the people after Dec. 7, 1941, that they were not taking the war seriously enough. Whatever else the Pearl Harbor investigation proves or disproves, we could wish that five years ago the nation had been blessed with more intellectual honesty in high places.

Sky-Writing

A STANDARD model heavy bomber, altered only as to weight and extra fuel capacity, has flown from Guam to Washington—8,000 miles in 35 hours.

The British, whose excellent Spitfires were the weapons with which a handful of brave men drove the German luftwaffe out of the daylight sky five years ago last month have developed and flown a new pursuit plane at the incredible speed of 660 miles an hour over a measured course.

In Washington a tense debate rages over a proposal to coordinate the land, sea and air forces of the nation for future defense—the first time that aviation would be recognized as a coordinate military arm, instead of merely an added function of existing services.

In every thoughtful mind world security has been acknowledged to lie chiefly in means and agreements for restraining the improper use of the air—the new medium of attack and now the first line of defense.

And in every part of the United States airplanes are flying, men and women are getting the feel of flight, commercial and military planes are becoming more commonplace, airfields are being developed, and a rising generation is growing up in the tradition that it belongs in the age of aviation. The sky-writing is plain. Planes will fly around the world at speeds which are still beyond comprehension. There will be no geographic isolation anywhere. An implement with unprecedented power of good and evil—greater even than the release of atomic energy—is in men's hands.

Though they carry out the Tory foreign policy in full, British socialists are still socialists. But not, of course, on the government's time.

Hank Wallace, who is fluent in English and can pass the time of day in Chinese and Russian, claims now to know a few words of business.

Leaving the parsnip in the ground for the winter not only improves the parsnip but there is the chance that, with luck, it will be forgotten.

"Controlled inflation" sounds every bit as plausible as stopping after one salted peanut.

"Statistics show the average Washingtonian takes four drinks while the citizen and taxpayer elsewhere is downing one." By the way—Who pays?

Asked to explain his outstanding success, a western dry cleaner attributes it all to husbands who open milk bottles with their thumbs.

"Nine per cent of all American women are bowlegged, according to a biologist's finding." Or research on a department store escalator.

"I will pay you $5 more than you're worth," says a classified ad, the irony of which will be lost on the many who cry "Who? Me? Work in a sweatshop?"

Sure we're frightened. Adam-splitting gave us Eve, a force which man in all the ages since has never been able to get under control.

The Mild Mr. Attlee

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Both Britain and U. S. Miss Point on Problems.

"GOOD OLD CLEM" ATTLEE did as well on his visit as any British prime minister might have done. Mr. Churchill would have attracted greater crowds and certainly would have moved us to greater enthusiasms, but this is no time for eloquence and color. Mr. Attlee fits this time.

He revealed himself honestly for what he is—a lawyer of moderate talents whose life's work has been in line with a deep emotional urge to help the working class. There are dozens of such lawyers in our cities—lawyers who have turned away from minor membership in big corporation firms because they wanted to serve many needy but less remunerative clients. They have served on settlement-house committees, public defenders panels of lawyers, better government leagues, bar association committees seeking to simplify legal procedure in small cases, and the like. In short, they are men who tried to serve simply and more or less intelligently an appreciative group of necessitous people.

That being Mr. Attlee's pattern of life, it is understandable that in his address to congress he should have been at pains to reveal the harmlessness of his party's aims. It isn't very radical, he explained. It has in its house of commons majority no less than 40 journalists. This, he no doubt felt, would reassure us, although he might have been told that 40 Heywood Brouns or Fremont Olders in congress would have worried us no end.

Background

Attlee's training and background have not enabled him to speak at length of those big international questions which would have interested us more. Britain's application for a loan, the troubles of the moment in the Empire's far reaches, Palestine and Russia relations he touched upon only lightly, preferring to leave their discussion to more experienced hands in negotiation.

He no doubt worried about American demands that we know what our loan is to be used for. Is it or is it not to socialize industry? Is it or is it not to be used to shut up nations, to a still greater degree, in water-tight socialist nationalities?

But despite the mildness of this man, his visit revealed the incapacity of our own government to show leadership in this critical moment in the matter of the British loan. Neither President Truman nor Secretary Byrnes has yet made publicly and unequivocally the point that other far-sighted Americans have repeated over and over. That point is that if American money is to go into Britain, it is of great value to both countries to have it used to modernize and increase the productivity of British industry. The Labor party places great store on who owns the present industrial plant. It is putting the cart before the horse. If the British industrial plant is unable to produce and compete in the markets of the world, it won't matter who owns it.

Not Serious Threats

Nor have Messrs. Truman and Byrnes seemed to comprehend the point that impire preference and the sterling bloc are not serious threats to the United States and are not important bargaining factors.

Empire preference is of no great advantage to England if her ships and shipyards are unable to produce more of the needs of the dominions than are now being produced. They will have to buy the deficient goods from us, in any event.

And the sterling bloc is no threat to us in the present weakened financial satus of Britain. A single great American bank could, by judicious loans, break the sterling bloc. No bank would do that, nor should Americans seek to do it by government pressure.

All this has not been made clear to the American people by their government. Nor has Mr. Attlee seemed to comprehend it. American and British leadership and vision are not showing the quality necessary to their responsibilities.

School Tries New Idea

By The United Press

HOUSTON, Tex.—A new wrinkle in education is being tried at Texas University school of dentistry, where oral examinations are conducted by using a recording of the instructor's voice.

Dr. Frederick C. Elliott, dean of the school, says a recording eliminates a psychological barrier, as the presence of an instructor might frighten some students.

With the recording, he said, slow and quick students will have equal opportunity.

Dental experiments will be filmed with a sound-track explanation so a student may hear the same lecture as many times as he wishes.

Simple clinical work will start for freshmen students, instead of waiting until they are juniors, as is the common practice.

"In this way we hope to obtain better dental doctors," Dr. Elliott said. "The emphasis will be off passing and failing. If our method is successful, it may revolutionize medical and dental education."

Soviet Exhibits Coming

NEW YORK—Panels and enlarged texts explaining the governmental make-up of the Soviet Union's republics and the part they played in the war on exhibit at Manhattan's American Museum of Natural History later will go on nation-wide tour.

The National Council of American-Soviet Friendship compiled the display. It includes more than 100 integrated panels. Charts show how the separate republics are fused into one nation.

PARIS — Not far from our house outside Paris there is a street sign: "Rue de la Liberation. The Americans passed here on Aug. 24, 1944." Nearby there is a German sign not yet taken down "Achtung, Minen."

In the small communal park across the street, German prisoners of war are filling in air-raid shelters which they had forced the French to dig during the war. Along the road, another group of prisoners is filling in holes made by heavy U. S. tanks and trucks during the advance on Paris.

France is not yet a luxurious country in which to live, but it is undeniably interesting.

One of our first visitors was a neighbor who wanted to know how she could locate an American Air Force lieutenant from Chicago. She said he had parachuted from his blazing Fortress in May, 1944 and had landed in her garden.

Her husband had supplied him with a civilian suit with which to escape through the Underground to Spain and freedom. Now the husband would like to have his suit back, because a new one would cost five hundred dollars.

The mayor of our town was killed shortly after the liberation by Communists who did not appreciate his war-time collaboration with the Germans. The new mayor, according to our neighbors, is certainly pro-Allied, but he has done nothing except raise the taxes since VE-day.

There is a small market place in our town where the farmers bring their produce each morning. Most of the commerce is down, however, on the grey or black market.

The grey-market, we've learned, is the business of buying small quantities of food illegally. Our family, we admit, trades extensively on the grey market.

The black-market is the illegal trade of commodities by the ton or truck-load. Thousands of people in France have become multi-millionaires during the past four years by being intermediaries on the black-market.

On the grey-market, we buy a dozen eggs a week—at about thirty cents apiece. We buy an occasional pound of steak for five or six dollars, and a weekly pound of butter for seven dollars.

Vegetables are unrationed and still plentiful despite a dry summer. The bread allotment is more than adequate. But everything else is in short supply and costs five to 10 times as much as New York City prices.

The average French worker's wage is still less than twenty-five dollars a week, although recent legislation has boosted it to cope with the inflation. The only way he can survive this fall and the coming winter is to dig out the remainder of his savings.

Schools Reopen

Spring should find the little people of France almost penniless But there are signs—in the market-places, in the newspapers and in government promises—that life will become more endurable after this first peace-time winter.

Last week when schools reopened, mothers patched their children's five-year-old clothes and sent them off for another eight months of education. Yet there are no school books, almost no chalk for the blackboards and little ink for the inkwells.

When the children come home for lunch in our town, they receive a bowl of thick soup and a length of hard-crusted bread If their shoes hold out, and if there are no epidemics this winter, they will manage to keep going to school until next summer.

While their fathers grumble about an "irresponsible" government, the mothers scratch about for food, patch the worn clothes and worry about the fuel supply for the winter.

Peace Comes To Europe—or Does It?

STOCKHOLM—Nothing in the United States possibly can prepare you for the hazards of northern European traffic.

To begin with, bicycles swarm at you like fleas. They climb your heels, run over your toes, breathe down your neck.

In the States nobody takes a bicycle seriously. It's a medium of traffic not quite belonging on the sidewalk and not quite belonging on the street. In Denmark and Sweden it is an all-important and certainly omnipresent means of transportation and may descend on you plain, with sidecar or wheelbarrow attachments, or with extra passengers fore and aft.

Denmark at least has the consideration to provide parking space for bicycles. Sweden stacks them along the streets one after the other so that when you round a corner and hook your feet on the first one, the whole line goes crashing down like a stack of cards.

Camouflaged Cars

And if you manage to escape the bicycles, all Scandinavia is full of German cars—camouflaged like snow or shrubbery or even street corners and bank buildings—which loom out of nowhere intent on scraping the nose right off your face.

In Finland you fly in condemned DC-2's bought from the United States in 1937, fitted with rubber band motors and paper wings and covered with odd parts that flap in the wind and threaten momentarily to scatter you in a thousand lakes.

In the parliament building in Helsinki there are non-stop elevators, a kind of perpetual dumb waiter on which you are supposed to step agilely at just the right moment, and which, if you aren't quick enough, bring your knee up to met your chin with a painful and painfully embarrassing crack.

Aslo is full of pensive pedestrians, hit and run walkers so used to lack of traffic that they wander through the streets with hands clasped behind their backs and heads down, looking neither to the right or left, and ram smack into the side of your car.

If you avoid these major hazards, there always are minor ones, such as revolving doors in Sweden that go backwards. Always you come hurtling out of a hotel with a mighty heave on the door and always you land with your face flat against the glass and have to be extricated by a tongue-clucking doorman.

Even in England—supposed to be on our side—there are people who spend the oddest hours of the day and night lurking around corners or tip-toeing down corridors with a tray or teacups precariously balanced in one hand and a pot of scalding tea in the other.

Oh for the safety of a Times Square traffic jam!

Cavite Takes to Air

By The Associated Press

CAVITE, Philippines—For the first time in its turbulent four-century history this naval base no longer plays host to the ships of the power dominating the Philippines.

Its wharves and shipyards wrecked by air raids during the war, Cavite has taken to the air age. It is the terminus of the daily Naval Air Transport service across the Pacific to San Francisco.

LONDON—Good music is booming in England. The 51st Promenade season at the Royal Albert Hall here ended after 49 concerts which more than 300,000 persons attended. The great hall was sold out every night. London recently had the unprecedented experience of three ballet companies all playing to capacity.

SUVA, Fiji—The women of Fiji's Knitting and Sewing circle did not stop their good work with the end of the war. A case of 300 garments was dispatched to the Lord Mayor of London for distribution to war victims recently and a second case is now half ready.

Plywood is made up of two or more slices of natural wood, cut in a spiral from a log, and pasted together with the grain of one slice crosswise over the grain of the other to give maximum strength.

The Once Over

The Master Race

HERR GOEBBELS denies that the Germans ever said they were a Master Race or thought of themselves as such. He insists the Germans, however, have something very special about them."

I don't know what it is that makes Us Germans from the rest
(Admitting we're no super race
When put to any test.)
We must have something special, though,
Oh, special, yah, and quaint
Dot makes us go so very far
To find out what we ain't!

II

I used to think I had the key
To what it is we've got;
It seemed so simple to all
When we were going hot;
But "Master race"? Ach, not at all!
I know that could not be—
(Especially in view of what Is happening to me!)

III

I never called us super folks—
I never talked that way;
I'm positive I never did—
Especially today;
It's merely "something special that"
Distinguishes our race
In putting forth such energy—
To land upon our face!

IV

To say that we're a master tribe
Is nonsense, this I say;
It never looked as silly as
It looks to me today;
It's "something special," nothing more
That fits us like a crown;
We always start so rightside up
And end so upside down!

V

That "master" stuff, it gets my goat;
It's silly through and through—
And extra silly at a time
When things are so askew;
A little "something special" is
Where every woman stops;
It's this that makes us go so fast
From Paris wines to der schnapps!

VI

So please forget about dot stuff
As we are glad to do:
I cannot understand today
How such a nonsense grew;
We simply have a special gift
For going forth to make
The world a pushover for us—
Und find it's OUR MISTAKE!

Why Playgoers Go Mad

We just saw on the road a new musical in which Joan McCutcheon, who got her start through a winsome charm and spritelike delicacy, has been given the role of a lady "neer-do-well, cheap, immoral and double-dealing. The producers must be after a record of some sort, for they also make a big musical show number out of a funeral, believe it or not.

Wanna bet?

It looks as if the man in the street who has had his troubles in avoiding being run down by an auto will now get run down by an auto strike.

Pickets held up shipment of 100 tons of turkeys in New York City. Can it be that labor has decided to stop giving dealer and customer the bird?

Those new prices put on autos, OPA says, do not include the extra tire and some fixtures. Boy, have we got to go back to the era of extra charges for accessories?

The China Clipper was blazing the first U. S. air trail across the Pacific from San Francisco to Manila by way of Honolulu and Wake.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Monday, Nov. 23, 1925.

Harold "Red" Grange began his career as a professional football player with the Chicago Bears of the National Football league, having signed a contract scarcely 24 hours after playing his last game with the University of Illinois.

The feature picture at the Marion theater was "Classified," with Corrine Griffith as the star. At the Grand Douglas Fairbanks had the leading role in "Don Q." At the Oakland, Antonio Moreno was cast in "One Year to Live."

City council adopted a milk code to regulate manufacture and sale of all dairy products within Marion's corporate limits. Food Inspector J. T. Gruber was to have complete charge of enforcing the ordinance.

Judge Charles L. Justice of Marion was one of the principal speakers in a district Knights of Pythias meeting at Alger. Others from Marion county attending were James McCoy and H. H. O'Dowd.

Character Readings

By Truman Twill

Mutual friends are the people you wouldn't say anything about behind their backs that you wouldn't say to their faces because you are extremely fond of them, but have you heard about their latest stunt?

They're the best people in the world and it's a shame they don't make it easier for people to like them, which could be done without any trouble, and the trick they pulled day before yesterday was the limit. Bzzz.

You have known them for years and are familiar with their good characteristics, which can be enumerated briefly, as well as their bad ones, which will take a little longer. But in spite of everything, they are fine people.

When you first knew them, of course, they were much younger than they are now and probably more carefree; at least that is the way it seems. Anyway they certainly have had a lot of fun.

That does not mean they aren't just as full of fun as ever, but things have changed. Everything is changed. No one can be blamed for change. But some people could try a little harder.

Understand, you wouldn't say anything behind anybody's back you wouldn't say to the face because you are extremely etc. Still, it isn't right to tell anyone they are behaving foolishly.

But friendship has its obligations as well as its pleasures and if your best friends won't take you then who can be depended on to extend a helping hand in time of great need? Obviously it isn't the sort of thing you want bandied around, but bzzzzzzzz.

There isn't a thing in the world you wouldn't do for a friend and they wouldn't do for you, you hope, and the same goes for all friends, but it's hard to stand by and see these things happen. What can they be thinking of?

As mutual friends of mutual friends we owe it to one another to tell the truth, the truth and nothing but the truth. However, there is a proper time and place for everything and in the meantime the truth might as well be kept around elsewhere too.

Mutual friendship is a wonderful thing. It's just about one of the finest ways there is to get a complete review of the faults and weaknesses of absent friends who are discussing you and your shortcomings with their mutual friends—and yours.

URGES "BIG 3" ATOMIC PARLEY

Congresswoman Wants Conference Right Now; Merger and UNRRA Studied.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Nov. 23—Here is a quick summary of today in congress

Atomic Energy—Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-Calif) says she wants President Truman to invite Russia and Britain "immediately" to a Big Three conference on the atomic bomb.

Also, the senate atomic committee headed by Brien McMahon (D-Conn) is back from an inspection trip to the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic bomb plant, and will start public hearings Monday.

Army-Navy Merger—The senate military committee with Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) back from overseas, hears testimony from John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war.

Foreign Relief—Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla.) predicted the senate would eliminate a so-called "free press" clause from a bill to pay out $550,000,000 to UNRRA.

The situation with regard to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is somewhat complicated.

Two bills are being considered. One would provide $550,000,000 for UNRRA money that has been promised by congress but not actually appropriated. This bill has been passed by the house—with the so-called "free press" clause included.

A senate appropriations subcommittee met today to consider the bill.

The Oklahoma senator, Elmer Thomas, in predicting the senate will knock out the "free press" clause, described it as a "slap in the face for Russia." It would prohibit the use of the American-granted funds in countries that won't let American reporters have access to news about UNRRA activities there.

The other UNRRA bill would authorize a further U. S. contribution of $1,350,000,000—recently requested by President Truman. Neither the house nor the senate has acted on this. The house foreign affairs committee is holding hearings on the proposal. General Eisenhower testified yesterday, urging continued U. S. support of the international relief agency.

Pay Figures of GM Strikers Reported

By The Associated Press

DETROIT Nov. 23—The average General Motors production worker has been earning from $1.12 to $1.15 per hour, the corporation estimate, and $1.18 per hour, by company estimates.

The United Automobile Workers (CIO) demand a 30 per cent wage increase which would boost the figure from $1.12 up to $1.46 per hour and the weekly pay for 40 hours from $44.80 to $58.40. Based on the corporation figure, a 32 per cent increase would bring the $1.18 hourly rate up to $1.55 and make the weekly pay for 40 hours $61.20 instead of $47.20.

The estimates were made for the corporation by a press relations spokesman and for the union by Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice president.

VITAMIN C DOSES END SULFA ILLNESS

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK Nov. 23—Use of vitamin C to relieve the illness that sulfa drugs cause in some persons is reported in the Ohio State Medical Journal by Dr. Harry N. Holmes, head of the chemistry department, Oberlin college.

He quotes several physicians who said large doses of vitamin C relieved the sulfa illness and enabled their patients to take the drug.

Dr. Holmes says that probably this vitamin will remedy the cases of sensitization to sulfas that worry the medical profession. Sensitization means that after a small dose of a sulfa drug a person becomes sensitive so that afterward not enough sulfas can be given even to save the patient's life.

Because of this risk, druggists in some places have been forbidden to sell any sulfa preparation to the public without a physician's prescription. This includes the sulfa drops used for colds and adhesive bandages containing sulfa preparations.

Weakness that lasts a long time is one discouraging after effect of sulfas. Dr. Holmes reports a medical experiment with 10 college students which indicates this weakness is not due to the sulfas but to loss of vitamin C. The experiments showed that while the sulfas were being given to the healthy young men their excretion of vitamin C was doubled. The loss of the vitamin, Dr. Holmes said, made them weak. Giving massive doses of this vitamin while sulfas are being taken is the remedy.

Dr. Holmes reported that cases of skin trouble in workmen had been mostly cleared up in industrial plants by daily doses of vitamin C. These skin troubles were due to poisonous substances and the vitamin acted as a purifier in the body.

Serving as a host and hostess committee were Mr. and Mrs. Marion Cheney, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnhill, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baldauf, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Mattes, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwenkly, Mr. and Mrs. George Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Peck and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Newell. A holiday date on the club's program will be a dinner dance at Hotel Harding on Dec. 12.

Mrs. Marlowe Zachman was elected president at a meeting of the Euterpean club Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Virginia Endicott of Bellefontaine avenue. Miss Mary Taylor was an associate hostess. Other officers elected were Mrs. Dorothy Lehner, vice president, Mrs. Ann Greenland, secretary, Mrs. Harriet Greenbaum, assistant secretary, Mrs. Mary Jane Hurst, treasurer, Mrs. Tracy Zachman, reporter. A contest was won by Mrs. Tracy Zachman. Lunch was served. A Christmas exchange will be held Dec. 10 at the home of Mrs. Cecil Davis of St. James street.

A candlelight service with a theme of Thanksgiving was featured when the Business Women's club met Wednesday noon for luncheon at the Y.M.C.A. The service was in charge of Miss Madelene Wynn with Misses June Wise, Wanda Geddis and Lois Jean Murray taking part. Miss Martha Hord was a guest.

Mrs. Earl Andrews was welcomed as a new member when the Lioness club met Tuesday at Rogers Inn. Following a short business session bridge was played with honors going to Mrs. Albert Mattes and Mrs. Harry Seiter.

Weddings

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Aneta Mae Slusher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Barnett of Willard, O., and Jack W. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Young of 141 Reed avenue. The double ring ceremony was read Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the home of the bridegroom's parents by Rev. E. M. Hertzler, pastor of First Church of the Brethren. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Homer Eber of Marion played several piano numbers including "Because," "Always," and the "Wedding March."

The bride chose for her wedding a street length dress of coral with luggage tan accessories. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and her corsage was an orchid. She carried a white Bible with white satin streamers. Miss Peggy Gray of Marion was the bridesmaid and only attendant. She wore a street length dress of light blue wool with brown accessories, and a corsage of gardenias. The bride's mother wore blue and the bridegroom's mother chose black with which each wore a corsage of gardenias. Robert Kemmerly of Marion, at home on leave from the Navy, served as best man.

The ceremony was performed before the fireplace of the living room which was decorated with vases of white rosebuds, white chrysanthemums and fern. On either side of the mantel were double candleholders with white candles. Following the wedding a reception was held and the table was centered with a wedding cake flanked by candles.

The new Mrs. Young attended high school at Willard and her husband was graduated from Harding High school with the class of 1941. He received his discharge recently from the Army after serving with the 44th Division, field artillery, two and a half years, having been overseas 11 months. They will make their home at Willard.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Chester Barnett of Willard, Mrs. William D. Young and Barbara Lee Young of Kenton, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Porter and Miss Mary Jane Porter of Akron, Mrs. Harold Prelipp of Plymouth, O., and Mrs. Ina Brown of Shelby.

The marriage of Miss Bernice Bullen, daughter of Elisha Bullen of Wakefield, Mich., and Robert Boganwright, hospital apprentice, U. S. Navy, which took place Saturday, Nov. 17, is being announced. The ceremony was read by E. W. Lindvahl, justice of the peace, of Waukegan, Ill. The bride wore a two-piece suit of gray wool and white accessories and her flowers were red and white carnations. Miss Elaine Brown and Howard J. Kaster were the attendants. The couple are visiting at the home of the bridegroom's father, Earnest Boganwright and family here. They will return to Waukegan where they will live for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Middleton of 908 Kenton avenue are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Juanita May, to Paul Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jackson of Columbus.

The custom of open church will be observed for the ceremony which will be read at 8 o'clock in the evening, Tuesday, Dec. 4, at the Church of Christ, Collins and Pennsylvania avenues, Columbus.

Miss Middleton attended Harding High school and her fiance attended Central High school in Columbus and is continuing with study for the ministry of the Apostolic Faith church after having completed a course at the Aeon Bible school in Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Davis were honored with a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eichhorn Sunday evening at the home of the latter, east of Morral.

Before her recent marriage Mrs. Davis was Miss Maurine Jean Flach of here. Mr. Davis was recently discharged from the U. S. Army and the couple will leave for California in the near future to make their home.

Dinner appointments were in crystal and white. Covers were laid for Mrs. C. H. Flach of Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Porter and son, Brian of Martel, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fogle and sons, David and Charles of near Meeker, John, Joan and Thomas Eichhorn, the honored guests and the host and hostess. Gifts were presented to the newly married couple.

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Nora Feltz of Windsor, Canada, to Joe Camlis also of that city, which is to be solemnized today. They will make their at 573 Victoria avenue in Windsor for the present. The bride is a sister of Mrs. James Finley of Leader street and Mrs. J. William Finley of East Farming street.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Robert Briner and daughters of Bryant street have been visiting for two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Ingram of Fostoria, former residents of Marion.

During the first several days of the hunting season, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Sheppard and family of Green Camp had several friends and relatives as house guests. They were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tomlin of Portsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Cronin and Clarence Artist of Sciotoville, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bowling of Cleveland.

Caledonia Couple Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. David Landes of Caledonia will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday with a family dinner at noon followed by open house between 2 and 4 p. m.

They were married at the home of Mrs. Landes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Collins of Owens Station, by Rev. Sulkerson. They have been residents of Caledonia since their marriage. Mrs. Landes is 70 years old and her husband is three years her senior.

The couple have six children, Orville Landes of Bucyrus, Marion Landes, Robert Landes and Mrs. Shirley Cain, all of Caledonia, Mrs. Leroy Bowers of the Cardington road and Mrs. Max Graham of Marion and 18 grandchildren.

NAVY TO DROP SCORE TO 38 POINTS DEC. 1

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—The Navy announced yesterday the point score discharge of most enlisted men will be reduced from 41 to 38 on Dec. 1.

On Dec. 15, the score will be lowered to 37 and on Jan. 1 to 36. The Navy estimated the cuts will make approximately 150,000 additional men eligible for release.

Previously, the Navy had announced plans to reduce the score to 39 on Dec. 1 and 38 on Jan. 1.

Certain specialists such as key punchers and shore patrolmen are not affected by the change. In addition, no reduction of scores beyond that previously announced for Dec. 1 and Jan. 1 will be made for enlisted men in the following ratings:

Water tenders, except water tenders (CB); machinists mates, except machinists mates (CB); chief commissary stewards and ships cooks and bakers.

The Navy said no further reduction of critical scores for women was made at this time because their demobilaztion is proceeding ahead of schedule.

Reports Made On Election Expenses

Thomas W. Rayburn has filed with the board of elections a statement of expenses incurred in opposition to the Jobs and Progress bond issue at the election Nov. 6. He lists contributions $110 and expenditures $110.

Additional candidates filing personal expense accounts are: George Lashey, candidate for third ward councilman, $5.18 and Harold Townsend, candidate for board of education, $10.05.

UPPER SANDUSKY RITES

UPPER SANDUSKY, Nov. 23—Funeral services for Ernest Lewis Frank, 78, who died Tuesday at the Home for the Aged south of Upper Sandusky, were held today. Services were conducted from the Bringman & Co. funeral home today at 10 o'clock, in charge of Rev. H. C. Kellermeyer, assisted by Rev. J. H. Weissrock. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Farm Women's Club Officers Elected

Annual election of officers was held at a meeting of the Pleasant Farm Women's club Wednesday afternoon with the following named for the coming year: Mrs. Ralph Hager, president; Mrs. S. B. Stowe, vice president; Mrs. Milford Schmidt, secretary; Mrs. Byron Rice, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Hoch chorister; Mrs. N. S. Schellhase, pianist and Mrs. Jacob Bolinger, reporter. The meeting was held with Mrs. Hager of Delaware road. Mrs. Schellhase served as assistant hostess. Mrs. Grover Lichtenberger, program chairman, opened the meeting with a Thankgiving song. Devotions were led by Mrs. M. F. Warner. Members responded to the roll call by telling "how to be a good neighbor." Program included readings by Mrs Warner, Mrs. Stowe and Mrs. Schellhase. Mrs. Warner and Mrs. William Morganthaler were winners of a spelling bee contest. Guests were Mrs. J. C. Main, Mrs. S. L. Surface and Mrs. Albert Mautz. The next meeting on Dec. 19 will be a Christmas exchange party at Ringers Inn.

CRESTLINE, Nov. 23 — The American Legion Auxiliary met in the Legion rooms Monday night. Plans were made for the annual Christmas party for children of the Legion and auxiliary members Dec. 11 with Mrs. A. C. Kindinger as chairman.

TO SPEAK AT GALION

GALION, Nov. 23 — Tuesday evening, Nov. 27, Dr. Frank F. Tallman, commissioner of mental diseases, Ohio Department of Public Welfare, will be guest speaker at a combined meeting of the Galion Classroom Teachers association and the Senior High P.-T.A. He will appear at 3:30 p. m. in the Senior High auditorium.

Several million bushels of potatoes are lost every year as a result of sprout growth in storage.

University Women Hear Mrs. Epp at Hotel Harding

GUEST speaker at a dinner meeting Tuesday night at Hotel Harding of the Marion Association of University Women was Mrs. Peter Epp of Columbus, a Russian born American citizen.

Mrs. Epp was born, reared and educated in Russia and is now making her home in America. The topic of her talk was "Russian Women." She has tried to do her share toward a better understanding of the Russian people and their culture through talks and lectures. Her husband is a member of the faculty at Ohio State university.

The next meeting of the group will be Tuesday, Dec. 18 with Mrs. Filmore Young at 341 Mt. Vernon avenue. This will be a business and social meeting.

DROP SEEN IN FARM PRICE GUARANTEES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 — A sharp revision in government farm price policies after the post-war adjustment period appears to be shaping up as a goal of the Truman administration.

That revision would take the form of lower price guarantees for some crops—particularly those which can be produced much more cheaply through use of mechanized methods. It also might result in somewhat higher prices for those requiring a high degree of labor.

Commodities which would be reduced in price cotton and wheat. Under present government price laws, these commodities are too high for a world market amply supplied by other producing countries. Even now, the United States is employing subsidies to permit its cotton and wheat flour to compete in the export market.

The export subsidy is 18 cents a hundred pounds on flour.

Secretary of State Byrnes, at Charleston, S. C., last week, said foreign trade policies of the administration seek elimination of barriers to world trade and use of export subsidies in exceptional cases only.

Speaking at Memphis, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson declared price goals of present farms laws "have little relation to reality" in their appliaction to some commodities.

Before 1866, when wax was first made from petroleum at Corry, Pa., the need for candles was supplied by tallow, beeswax, or such vegetable waxes as bayberry.
